Debate Was A Sleeper, Area Voters Decide

KINGSTON — Area residents didn't seem to share the interest or enthusiasm of their political leaders over Thursday night's opening round of the Ford-Carter debates.

Less than a third of the 28 people interviewed by the Freeman this morning had watched even part of two-hour question and answer session, and two of them fell asleep in the first 10 minutes.

"I just wasn't interested, so after about five minutes I turned it off," said Betty Lawrence of Kingston as she poured breakfast coffee for patrons of a Wall Street delicatessen.

Interest was higher among local political leaders, but their enthusiasm didn't seem to split as clearly along party lines as it did on the state and national levels.

"Achh," said Peter J. Mancuso, Democratic majority leader of the Kingston Common Council, "I don't feel the debate impressed anyone for either candidate. I don't think anybody changed their minds."

Jim Schussler, a Port Ewen resident, fell asleep after the first 10 minutes of the prime time program, as did Mrs. Edward Scott of Hurley.

Mrs. Scott's husband, however, sat through the entire show and concluded that debates between presidential candidates should be "made into law."

Peter J. Savago, R-Dist. 8, the county legislature's chief Republican, didn't watch the debate but made sure to poll his colleagues for their opinions: "I heard it was equal, about a draw," Savago said.

Many other viewers agreed, including Kingston resident William Rieseley, who described himself as "still on the fence about who I'd pick."

Kathleen Quick, D-Dist. 4, didn't think "either one came out ahead. It may take another debate for one to outshine the other."

Not so, said Francis P. Stauble, city Republican chairman, who found Ford's performance "wonderful. I thought he did exceptionally well. He did his homework and apparently knew what he was doing."

Kingston Mayor Francis R. Koenig thought that Ford was "unimpressive" and that Carter "handled himself very well."

"The President looked a little nervous, and I expected him to be more forceful than he was," the Democratic mayor said.

On the other hand, Koenig's running mate, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo, found "both of the candidates seemed uneasy. Neither was specific enough for what I wanted to hear . . . especially about what they would do for the Northeast."

Russell Tibbals of New Paltz, a Ford supporter, thought there was no question about the President coming out ahead, although Tibbals still found himself "a

Vote Is 23 to 10

Legislature Rejects Welfare Takeover

KINGSTON — The county legislature last night, as expected voted down a resolution which would have turned adminsitration of the home relief program over to the county.

By a 23 to 10 vote the much debated, two-month-old resolution presented by William West, R-Dist. 2, was finally laid to rest, but not befor West and several of his colleagues warned the body that this wouldn't be the last word on the subject.

Minority leader Louis Klein told the specially convened session that "towns well off today may be facing destitution tomorrow" and that the vote against spreading the home relief burden over all 22 towns and the City of Kingston was "short-sighted."

As Woodstock supervisor Valerie Cadden, county social services commission Bernhardt Kramer and a handful of private spectators watched and listened in silence, West, who's name alphabetically puts him on the bottom of the legislative list, cast the final vote in favor of the resolution.

He prefaced the move by making an impassioned plea to the other 32 legislators, the public and the press to pin down candidates for state legislative offices on what they will do to assist in welfare reform.

"This is an election year and we should face up to the fact that meaningful welfare reform will have to come at a state level. These candidates should tell us what the heck they're going to do to get these problems off our backs, and tell us now, before they're elected, not after the election."

Mrs. Cadden, who initially brought the plight of increasing town home relief into the spotlight by refusing to pay Woodstock's home relief bills because of

New Company Offer Could Come Today

Strike May End Soon

DETROIT(UPI) — The first strong signs that the 10-day-old strike by 170,000 workers against the Ford Motor Co. may not drag on have surfaced amid reports the No. 2 automaker is preparing its first offer since the strike began.

The offer could come today and trigger intensive bargaining, company sources said.

It couldn't be too soon for the Ford workers, who are collecting their last company checks for the Monday and Tuesday worked before the strike began. Next week, instead of receiving checks in the $300 range, they'll receive strike benefits of $40 to $50 a week.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock, who has refused to predict how long the dispute may last, indicated Thursday he finally could see some progress.

"We're getting closer," he said. "We're on the right track."

UAW Vice President Ken Bannon, Ford UAW head, said negotiators were "getting a hell of a lot closer."

A company spokesman noted that talks were "progressing" and that bargainers were "addressing some key noneconomic matters."

Woodcock's optimism, combined with the first comments by Ford spokesmen in four days and reports from company sources that new options are being considered, are the clearest signs of progress since a week before the strike started.

But the UAW spokesmen, trying to make sure the hopes of the workers on the picket line are not falsely raised, cautioned that even that movement doesn't mean a quick end to the dispute.

"There were some perceptible changes," the UAW spokesman said. "But it's obvious the talks haven't heated up yet to the point where we see the end."

The optimism on the labor front coincided with a new car sales report showing midSeptember new car sales up 8 per cent from a year ago and the fourth highest in history for the period. Despite its strike, Ford sales were up 17 per cent and analysts said only "a few thousand" sales were lost.

Presentation of the new contract proposal, if it contains some movement on the union's key demand for reducing time on the job to create even more jobs, could trigger the first intensive bargaining since auto industry contract talks began in mid-July.

'Bishop' Signs On 200 Ministers

By ROB BORSELLINO
Freeman staff

KERHONKSON— Following an hour and 45 minutes of toilet jokes, complaints about press coverage, jokes about gay people and a few weak attempts to avoid discussing tax exemption last night, Bishop George McLain finally got down to the business of ordaining close to 200 Ulster County residents as ministers in the Universal Life Church,Inc. (ULC).

McLain, a plumbing and heating contractor, performed his service last night at the Rondout Valley Rod and Gun Club in Kerhonkson. He began performing these mass ordinations last May when 10 people gathered on the front lawn of his home in the Sullivan County community of Liberty.

"We didn't start these ordinations purely for tax exemption purposes," McLain told the gathering, "that would be illegal and I don't want to break the law. But it seems to me that some politicians make laws that make millionaires out of some religous leaders, while you and me, the little people, are fighting for survival."

Despite McLain's repeated contention that he would not ordain anyone who was purely interested in tax exempt status, it was impossible to find anyone at the gathering who claimed to be there for any other reason. Confronted with this fact McLain replied, "I don't know or care about that. I won't discuss the tax issue."

Under New York State law churches and members of the clergy are exempt from paying various taxes. This fact has made the California based ULC an attractive proposition because, according to McLain, "this church is not designed to come between you and your God."

People can join the church and be ordained into the ministry for a contribution. For $2 they can receive a card which identifies them as a member of the clergy. Church charters can be obtained so long as the minister holds regular services.

"About once a year would seem pretty regular to me," McLain said.

Some of those in attendance last night seemed to have a genuine concern for the religious aspect of the ordination. One women asked McLain what the duties of a minister were.

"You can't drink, smoke or chase wild women," said the bishop while puffing on a cigarette. The crowd loved it.

Someone else asked McLain what he was getting out of the ordinations in personal gain.

"I'll tell you what I get. Last night we did about 200 people in Sullivan County and we passed the hat and I got about $87. My expenses for postage and telephone run about $600 a month. Nobody is obligated to contribute, but I will tell you I'm down about $1100."

McLain explained he was not in it for the money.

Although he is forbidden by law to encourage people to pursue tax exemption, he did spend a considerable amount of time explaining how it could be done, stopping occasionally to remind the gathering that he was not endorsing that course of action.

"You could donate 50 per cent of your annual income to your church, using that money for food, gas and electric bills. But I'm not telling you to do that. That would be against the law and I don't want to break any laws. But you could do it that way. That's the way the law is written."

The New York State Attorney General's office recently said they will not recognize ministers of the ULC for tax exemptions, but McLain seems to feel there is hope of winning a court challenge.

"What I got here in my hand," he says holding up a sheet of paper, "is a decision handed down in a Califonia federal court in 1973. Now it's a California court, but it is a federal court none the less. And what this decision says is that the government cannot consider whether or not a religion is authentic, no matter how outrageous that religion may appear to be. We got something in this country called a constitution and that constitution has something called a first amendment.

Feds Probe Bank Loan to Ex Con

By LYNN MULVANEY
Freeman staff

NEW PALTZ — A federal investigation into the alleged loan of about $350,000 to convicted felon Paul "Sonny" Cafaro of New Paltz by William R. Rhinehardt, former vice president of First National Bank of Highland, is underway.

Bank Vice President Anthony Koenig and Jeremy Epstein, U. S. attorney for the Southern District of New York, refused to comment on the investigation today and Rhinehardt claimed the charges are being blown out of proportion.

The Freeman learned that Rhinehardt, a 14-year employee of the bank allegedly approved business loans of about $350,000 of which about $90,000 was secured.

Cafaro, 44, released from the Atlanta Penitentiary on federal parole March 14, 1975 was general manager of New Paltz Sanitation in 1970, was simultaneously employed by Ultimate Construction and Heating in Newburgh while invlolved in the sanitation business and has been associated with New Paltz Tire Service, Inc., Route 32, New Paltz.

Cafaro is believed to have an extensive criminal record having been previously convicted of attempted extortion arising out of his and Richard Schulman's attempts to shake down gamblers in Poughkeepsie. Cafaro resides at 180 N. North Putts Corners Road.

It is alleged that Rhinehardt, while bank vice president, loaned various amounts of money to Cafaro showing the loan as a renewal rather than a new loan, thereby circumventing the need for approval of the bank's board of directors.

Rhinehardt, who is now at Foreign Cars of New Paltz, denied Thursday that he left the bank because of the federal investigation, which he refused to comment on. He indicated he left the bank's employ of his own violition.

Asked if he had made the loans of $350,000 or if he had been coerced into making them, Rhinehardt maintained neither allegation was true.

Federal authorities are investigating what reportedly may be false entries and manipulated accounts at the bank.

County Escapee Sought

KINGSTON — State Police and Sheriff Department roadblocks were thrown up late this morning and State Police helicopters and patrol cars scoured the countryside for an escaped inmate from Ulster County Jail.

Charles Eberman, a 25-year-old white male weighing about 140 pounds with brown hair and a full beard, and wearing a green jump suit made his escape about 10:30 a.m. when he scaled a fence in the recreation yard at the Golden Hill facility.

Eberman, who is a Bronx resident, was in jail on charges of possession of stolen property.

Fritz Cuts Up Peanut Cake

With the help of a camera-shy young girl, Senator Walter Mondale cuts a five-foot long cake shaped like a peanut given to him after a speech at a Flint, Mich., UAM Hall. The chocolate, cherry and vanila confection had inscriptions reading "Go Team Go" and "Give 'em Hell, Jimmy." Mondale, known to his colleagues as "Fritz," shared the cake with about 10 distant relatives who spell their name Mundale and all live in the Flint area.

Vegas Strips Talk

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — City employes should not talk to reporters and better "try to make the mayor and the city commissioners look good" if they do, City Manager Bill Adams has warned.

Adams said he has already fired eight employes for talking to reporters without authorization and is ready to fire more if need be.

"It's going to get harder to get information from city workers, believe me," the city manager said.

"Employes must not lie, must not give opinions and must try to make the mayor and the city commissioners look good."

Off Limits for Birds

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — Patrolman Gene Collier has nothing against feeding the birds. But don't throw the food in the middle of the street.

Hungry birds using the middle of busy Capitol St. for a feeding area pose a traffic problem. And when that happens, as it did Thursday, Collier gets a bit rankled.

The first time it occurred, Collier was polite, but firm, in asking the man to stop feeding the birds.

Moments later, Collier found the man still tossing peanuts into the middle of the street and the birds eagerly scooping up the morsels.

As Collier attempted an arrest, the man took a swing and made contact.

Life on Mars... Jury Still Out

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The Viking 1 and 2 robot laboratories perched on Mars, after weeks of probing and poking, sifting and simmering, have given scientists data for an answer to the question: Is there life on the red planet?

The answer:

Who knows?

The information relayed by the Vikings has not shown there is any life on Mars, scientists told a news conference Thursday.

Then again, they noted, neither does it show there isn't any.

Jet Propulsion Laboratory scientists discussed the results of a key biology-hunting experiment aboard Viking 2, meant to check on results from Viking 1 that appeared to strengthen the possibility there may be microorganisms in the Martian soil.

The pyrolitic release experiment registers the presence of carbon atoms absorbed by the soil samples, an action presumably carried out by the organisms.

Viking 1 returned a surprisingly high count of 96 per minute at one point. The count fell off sharply in a repeat experiment after the soil sample was sterilized — indicating the sterilization had killed the organisms that caused the high reading in the first experiment.

The Viking 2 count was an inconclusive 21.

"If the count was down around 10 or 15 per minute, there'd be no doubt we're dealing with photochemistry," not life, said Dr. Gerald R. Soffen.

"The 21 counts are marginal. That's not high enough to be a sign of biology and not low enough to be a sign of chemistry."

"I would suggest that if there is life on Mars it is not burgeoning," said Dr. Norman Horowitz.

Dr. Gilbert Levin concluded that, given the puzzling data to date, it would be "just as far fetched" to declare there is no life on Mars as to say there is.

"I don't know whether there is life on Mars. But I feel certain we don't have the evidence to rule it out.

Estrogen Drugs Due for a Change

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has decided to require labels on estrogen drugs to carry notices that they should be used only for severe symptoms of menopause.

Alexander Schmidt, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, told a Senate health subcommittee Thursday that he had signed orders for the new requirement.

"Basically we are saying estrogens are valuable drugs and must remain on the market, but we are also saying they are overused and sometimes improperly used for menopausal conditions," Schmidt said.

Estrogen drugs are widely prescribed to help women through "change of life" by replacing the loss of hormones. Some critics say they are overly prescribed as "mood drugs."

The new labeling will specify the drugs are to be used only when the symptoms of menopause are severe, Schmidt said.

About 22 million prescriptions are written annually for estrogen replacement drugs.

FDA has told the leading manufacturer it should not minimize the association between the use of estrogens and cancer of the uterus. The agency also sent out a drug bulletin to doctors to "emphasize the newly reported increased risk of cancer of the uterus associated with prolonged use of estrogen products."

CB Seen Crime Factor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI believes thefts of citizen band radios may have been largely responsible for the overall increase in serious crime shown in its latest report.

The report released Thursday showed decreases in all types of serious crime during the first half of 1976, as compared with the first half of 1975, except for an 11 per cent increase in larcenies and thefts.

A spokesman said the FBI has not conducted a survey to pinpoint the cause of the larceny-theft increase but believes CB thefts may have been a big factor.

"In our teaching classes throughout the country, we have found that CB thefts are a significant problem for law enforcement," he said. "We travel east, west, north, south — everywhere we go the crime problem involves the CB radios."

The FBI cannot measure the impact of CB thefts until it completes a year-end report giving a breakdown on the types of larcenies and thefts involved, the spokesman said.

House Kills Fuel Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House, by one vote, killed legislation that would have provided up to $4 billion in federal loan guarantees for programs demonstrating the value of synthetic fuels.

Rep. Richard Ottinger, D-N.Y., one of the opponents, said the bill "reeks of special interest favoritism to a handful of multibillion-dollar corporations."

The House voted, 193 to 192, Thursday to block the bill from consideration on the floor, effectively killing it for this session of Congress.

The bill would have guaranteed up to $3.5 billion in loans for construction and start-up costs of facilities demonstrating new technologies. It would include $500 million in price supports for synthetic fuels they produced for the market.

If there is a market for synthetic fuels, opponents said, private companies should meet the need without government help. Supporters of the bill contended, however, that federal aid was needed to help increase energy supplies.

Debating Ford And Carter Fling Figures, Charges

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — President Ford and Jimmy Carter traded charges of incompetent leadership and impossible promises, swapped facts and figures like pocket computers, and broke no new ground on major domestic issues in their first presidential debate.

In the first confrontation between presidential candidates since the Nixon-Kennedy clashes 16 years ago, the Democratic and Republican contenders Thursday used studied, measured tones.

Occasionally they spoke sharply and directly to each other on such issues as tax reform, unemployment and inflation, but for the most part they looked directly into the television cameras, from the stage of the old Walnut Theater, at an audience estimated at 100 million.

The 90-minute, prime time debate ran into a technical snafu. Nine minutes before it was over, an amplifier problem killed the audio portion for 28 minutes and left the candidates waiting nervously to give their summations.

The Roper organization polled 600 persons across the nation and found 39 per cent thought Ford did better, 31 per cent thought Carter did, 30 per cent called it a draw.

"I think we both did adequately," Carter told reporters afterwards. His wife, Rosalynn, cut in and said, "You can't say it, but I think you won!"

Ford, grinning and waving to cheering supporters at a postdebate celebration, said: "From what I've heard, we did all right. And when we get to the next one and we talk about national defense and foreign policy, we'll do even better!

"We're at a turning point ... the momentum is on our side."

Ford said he has turned the economy around, moved toward a balanced budget, cut taxes and federal spending, and restored confidence in government.

Carter said Ford was insensitive to human needs, permitting unemployment to soar in order to fight inflation.

At times the debate got personal.

"Mr. Ford, so far as I know, except for avoiding another Watergate, has not accomplished one, single major program for this country," Carter said.

When Ford attempted to tie Carter with what the President termed the "big spending Democratic Congress," Carter came back with:

"If he insists I should be responsible for the Democratic Congress, of which I was not a part, then I think he should be responsible for the Nixon administration, of which he was a part, in its entirety."

Carter's main attack came on Ford's unemployment record. He said more Americans are out of work now than when Ford took office two years ago, and he said the administration is "insensitive" to the unemployed.

Ford's strongest attack came on Carter's tax proposals. He said if Carter was elected he would "raise the taxes on half the American people."

Following 12 questions posed by reporters, both gave four minute closing statements.

The first debate was confined to domestic issues. On Oct. 6 the two will meet in San Francisco to debate foreign policy and defense, and on Oct. 22 their third meeting will be a free for all on any subject.

Responses on major issues included:

•JOBS — Carter would give "top priority" to reducing overall employment in the nation to 4 or 4.5 per cent in four years. Ford said the best answer to unemployment was to "look to the private sector" and reduce taxes.

•TAXES — Ford indicated he would sign the 1,500-page tax reform bill passed by Congress, but said the measure does not go as far as he would like in cutting taxes. Carter said he would cut taxes for low and middle income wage earners while closing loopholes that benefit the rich.

•AMNESTY — Repeating previous stands, Ford said he opposes blanket amnesty, while Carter he would grant pardons — which he said means forgiveness — but not amnesty to draft resisters.

•BUDGET — Both men said they wanted to balance the budget, but Ford said in 1978, while Carter said it would not come until his fourth year in office.

•INTELLIGENCE AGENCIES — Ford said his administration was the first to clamp down on illegal activities by the CIA and other intelligence agencies. Carter said the government has too much secrecy and too little personal privacy.

It was at this 12th and final question that the sound faded away. The problem was in the television pool sound line feeding out of the theater to the three major networks. It took 27 minutes to correct the problem.

SLOW PROGRESS

Work on the renovations of the Ulster County Jail and the adjacent court house on Wall Street in Kingston are still moving along slowly due to an unofficial slowdown by construction union tradesmen who are honoring a Sheet Metal Workers informational picket line that has been walking in front of the site for the past several weeks. The Sheet Metal workers object to the use on non-union help by one of the job's sub-contractors.

Lloyd Sued Over Reassessments

HIGHLAND — Four Town of Lloyd citizens have filed a suit in State Supreme Court accusing the town board, the assessment review board and assessor Robert Kerwick of illegal 1976 tax roll assessments, fraud, and acting outside the scope and intent of the Real Property Tax Law.

Michael Nardone, Rossmary Nardone, David Hurt and Daniel Welch in their suit allege the review board, town board and Kerwick "acted in a manner which denied equal protection under the law and due process," perpetrated a fraud on town taxpayers, and inflicted on taxpayers a tax roll that was "illegal, discriminatory and unjust." The review board action on grievances was called "arbitrary, capricous and with abuses of discretion" and outside the scope and intent of the Real Property Tax Law.

The show cause order asks that decisions on the 1976 tax roll be rescinded and that the 1975 tax roll be relied on until a reassessment is completed at 100 per cent valuation subject to court review.

In a 27-point affirmation of their suit, the plaintiffs allege that assessments appearing on the 1976 tax roll were "illegal, discriminatory and replete with errors" and that the town's move to 100 per cent valuation for assessment should have been postponed until next year.

The plaintiffs also charged that the assessor, in cases where he received little or no cooperation from property owners, failed to obtain search warrants to make inspections. Assessments for these properties were "based mainly on hearsay, surmise and suspicion, which means the taxpayers are assessed unfairly and unequally and not at 100 per cent valuation."

Dissatisfied with the firm the county hired to reassess the town at 100 per cent, Kerwick took over the task himself shortly after becoming assessor. The New Paltz Central School District, which includes a portion of the Town of Lloyd, delayed issuing a tax warrant because of the numerous corrections necessary on the first tax warrant supplied by Kerwick, saying a second (and costly) warrant would have to be issued later. The Highland Central School District, which includes most of the Town of Lloyd, decided to go ahead with the first warrant.

The defendants were granted a delay until until Oct. 1 by Supreme Court Justice Robert Williams.

Colonial Gardens To Get Boiler

KINGSTON — An $84,890 contract with Mechanical Construction Corp. of Poughkeepsie to install a dual heating system at the Colonial Gardens public housing complex was unanimously approved by the Kingston Common Council Thursday night.

Work on the contract, which involves replacing two 24-year-old boiler systems, should begin next week. Funds will come entirely from the city's second-year entitlement under the federal community development block grant program.

Alexander Yosman, executive director of the Kingston Housing Authority, said both present boilers are operable and will be replaced one at a time to assure sufficient heat as the weather grows colder.

The Poughkeepsie firm was low bidder on the job. Other bids came from Banks Brothers of Accord, $89,900; M. Kramer & Sons of Albany, $96,840; C.B. Strain & Son of Kingston, $99,400, and Wenco Heating-Cooling Corp. of Peekskill, $122,400.

Colonial Gardens, a 98-unit complex opened in 1953, was the city's first major public housing project. A 32-unit senior citizens section was added to the east along Flatbush Avenue six years ago.

Patty to Hear Fate

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Six months ago Patricia Hearst, convicted of participating in a $10,000 bank robbery with the Symbionese Liberation Army, was sentenced to a 35year prison sentence and ordered to undergo psychiatric tests.

Miss Hearst appears in court today to hear from U.S. District Judge William H. Orrick Jr. whether, as a result of the tests, the sentence imposed on her after she was found guilty by a jury of seven women and five last March will be reduced.

Since March she has been held in a federal jail in San Diego undergoing extensive and detailed psychiatric examination ordered by her trial judge, the late Oliver J. Carter.

Broadway West Folk Invited to Meeting

KINGSTON — Homeowners, residents and businessmen of the Broadway West area have been invited to a meeting Monday night to discuss plans for federal community development improvements in that section of the city.

Topics at the meeting, called by a neighborhood subcommittee of community development advisers, will include the pending Cornell Park project, low-interest rehabilitation loans, criteria for eligibility, and planned street, sidewalk and utility improvements for the area.

Comments and questions from residents and businessmen will be welcomed, Community Development Director Ralph A. Marallo said.

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Office of Community Development, 97 Broadway. On hand with Marallo will be subcommittee chairman Richard M. Kalish and members Rosetta VanDermark and Alderman Daniel F. Smith.

Broadway West is defined roughly as the area bounded by Broadway, Spring, Wurts Streets and West Strand, an area adjacent to the Broadway East urban renewal project.

little up in the air about who I was in favor of."

The whole idea of a debate, Tibbals said, "was excellent."

A woman who is reserving her judgment until the last two of the three scheduled debates are broadcast is Betsy Warneke of Glenford.

"The debate was interesting, but I didn't think there was any winner. They both did pretty well," she said.

None of those interviewed felt the 27-minute broadcast delay from sound equipment failure had any effect on the impact of the debate.

the excessive burden they were placing on the town's budget, said last night she wasn't giving up.

"I'm just not going to stop fighting. I know what I personally want to do, but I'm looking for input from the townspeople to see what course of action they want to take,"

Mrs. Cadden syas there are three choices: raise taxes by 70 or 80 per cent; cut $200,000 (her estimate of relief costs for next year) out of the services residents will expect from the town; or just refuse to pay home relief until ordered by the courts to do so.

She also responded to a statement made by one of the legislators earlier in the evening who suggested that towns with spiraling welfare costs were not diligent enough in demanding work relief programs for their recipients or in tightening up on loose adminsitrative ends.

"The size of the roll is no indiciation of the quality of services," she said. "I know how much time I spend and there's nothing you can do when the state allows people on the rolls after fair hearings."

Also up for vote last night was final approval on the acceptance of $46,215 in bids for completion of work in the county parking lot, behind the Fair Street office building.

The legislature had approved several weeks ago putting the blacktopping, masonry and lighting out for private bid, with with proponents arguing that the county highway dspartment does not have the machinery or manpower to complete the finishing touches on the job.

After some debate, mostly from Kathleen Quick, D-Dist.,4, who again challenged the need for hiring outside contractors to do work that county employes could complete, the resolution to accept the bid from Ayvee Contruction Inc., and Ulster Electric Supply Co. was passed 27 to 6.

And that first amendment guarantees you and me freedom of religion. Some people say we're making a mockery of religion, but I seen the light and you people here tonight seen the light and since we are the 'We the people' the government's been talking about all these years, maybe pretty soon the governments gonna see the light too."

Recently McLain ordained about 50 per cent of the residents living in the Ulster County community of Hardenburgh, where about 25 percent of the town's land is owned by tax exempt organizations such as Buddhists, Boy Scouts, Tibetan monks and a conservation center.

"Soon as all those people out in Hardenburgh get their tax exemptions," said McLain," the only people out there that are gonna be paying taxes are the state and the utility company....and that really upsets me."

Amen, said the newly ordained ministers.

Indians' Fund Goes Begging

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Some 10,000 Indians who have not claimed their share of one billion dollars granted by Congress rate as the largest group of missing heirs in the history of the nation.

Alaskan Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts were given the money for the sale of 40 million acres to the government in the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act of 1971.

The Alaska Native Enrollment Information Office said today 78,000 Alaska natives have received their share of the billion dollars, but about 10,000 others have not.

What's more, under a congressional act, if they fail to register by by Jan. 2, 1977, they will lose out.

Sharpest Competitive Clash Since the 30s

ChemBank Challenges Brokers for the Investment Business

NEW YORK (UPI) — The ChemBank Investors Services program unveiled last week by Chemical Bank New York Corp. puts the bank, and others that may follow its move, in the sharpest competitive clash with the securities industry since the 1930s.

The retail stock brokerage plan launched by Chemical, the nation's fifth largest commercial bank, is intended to give individual investors deep discounts from the commissions charged by regular brokers.

For a $30 annual fee, selected Chemical customers can place buy and sell orders through the bank for all listed and most unlisted stocks, paying commissions through their checking accounts at rates well below those charged by major brokerage houses.

The bank will use an established broker, Pershing & Co., to carry out the actual stock trades but with the financial clout of a large institution, Chemical will pay much less in commissions than an individual investor and will pass along much of the savings.

Chemical's announcement had been expected for months and while it has long been possible to buy and sell stock through banks, the ChemBank program marks the first aggressive bank challenge to the securities industry's hold on the retail customer market.

Chemical attempted to minimize the challenge, stressing that it was only making existing services more readily available through the trial ChemBank program. "We are not going into a new area," said Chemical Senior Vice President John B. Menche.

But securities firms are hearing footsteps. The Securities Industry Association, a trade group, last summer called for a congressional review of all banking laws "to restrict banks from continuing on their present course" in the securities area.

Brokerage firms and investment bankers claim commercial banks are venturing too far into securities activities, infringing on areas banned by the 1933 Glass-Steagall Act, and are trying to get a favorable court ruling on the matter. They argue as well that banks operate under little regulatory control in the securities area and therefore pose unfair competition.

"The banks, even with special operating privileges, can't make a go of their programs for the small investor, but may be interested in the service as a loss leader to bring in other bank business," says Chairman Donald T. Regan of Merrill Lynch & Co. He and others say the banks really may have their eye on the more lucrative investment banking functions of the securities industry.

Commercial banks respond that the securities firms are crying wolf in the face of very limited competition. Banks say their stock customers are fully protected now and that banks can spur waning small-investor interest by offering such services at low costs.

For example, Chemical will charge a $35 commission on an order of up to 500 shares of stock, regardless of the stock price, and $55 for 500 to 1,000-share orders. A typical charge to a small investor for a 100-share order of a $100 stock is $85 at a major brokerage.

Other major commercial banks, such as Chase Manhattan and Manufacturers Hanover Trust in New York, are taking a wait-and-see approach to expanded retail stock services until the results are in at Chemical.

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mary Lude who passed away September 24, 1975.

If we could have one lifetime wish,
One dream that would come true.
We would pray with all our hearts
For yesterday and you.
To your grave we wander
Flowers we place with care,
But only God knows the heartache
As we turn and leave you there.
Memories are treasures no one can steal,
Death leaves a heartache no one can heal,
Some may forget you now, that you're gone,
But we shall remember no matter how long.

Honest Trucker Returns $25,000

NEW YORK (UPI) — An "amazingly honest" truckdriver found a bag containing $25,000 in $5 and $10 bills that had fallen out of an armored car Thursday and turned it over to authorities.

Police said James E. Thompson, 30, of Brooklyn, found the canvas Federal Reserve Bank bag in front of a store in Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section.

Minutes before, police said, the money had fallen unnoticed from a van belonging to Metropolitan Armored Car Service. The bag fell out of the armored car when a minor accident jarred open a door on the passenger's side, police said.

The armored car crew drove on, not noticing the loss, police said.

The armored car was carrying the money from a Manufacturers Hanover bank branch to Yard's Check Cashing Service.

"The bag had a tag on it saying '$25,000,' but it was still sealed," said Det. Randolph Jacobs at the stationhouse in Queens where Thompson turned in the money.

Jacobs said Thompson took the money from Brooklyn to the Queens precinct because "it was the only stationhouse he knew the location of." He told police he was turning in the bag because it was "the right thing to do."

"He got a little excited when we opened the bag and he actually saw the money," Jacobs said. "He compared it to his salary. He said his whole annual salary didn't come close to that."

Det. John Brush, who investigated the case, said the return of the money was a remarkable stroke of good luck.

"That's a busy area down there and the money wouldn't have lasted on the ground for long if an honest guy like him hadn't turned it in," Brush said.

"It's just amazing for this town. I've been on the force 18 years and I've never seen anything like it. If I'm on the force another 18 years I don't think I'll see it again.

"With the money in small denominations like that, and unmarked, we'd have never traced it if someone had decided to pick it up and walk away with it."

A spokesman for the armored car company declined comment on the incident.

Temporary Liver Saves Boy's Life

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Use of a temporary "artificial liver" has saved the life of a 13-year-old boy who was in the deepest stage of coma from liver failure, Georgetown University Medical Center doctors reported today.

Dr. Michael C. Gelfand said the youngster, Carlton Parker of Washington, is the youngest successfully treated by the external charcoal blood filtering device developed in England.

"The procedure provided him with a temporary but crucial lifeline," Gelfand said. "Very rarely is a patient brought back from such a deep coma."

"The complete recovery of this patient indicates that the procedure is now successfully usable in the pediatric age group for liver failure and possible drug overdoses."

The boy suffered liver and kidney failure seven months ago from toxic causes and standard methods of treatment failed.

The Georgetown doctors then tried the new liver simulator. The boy's blood was passed through a cylinder packed with specially treated charcoal which absorbs toxins.

"Following the procedure, the coma reversed dramatically," Gelfand said. "The patient who had dropped to 85 pounds is now well and healthy, weighing 140."

Ford in Buoyant Mood, Feels He Topped Carter

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — President Ford was in a buoyant mood today, obviously feeling he topped Jimmy Carter in the first round of their three debates. A top White House aide said Ford might soon pass Carter in nationwide polls.

The President scheduled a speech to the Polish American Congress after telling a post-midnight party of supporters he is turning the campaign around on his Democratic opponent.

"We're at the turning point in the campaign. The polls are going our way. The momentum is on our side," Ford said to loud cheers after Thursday night's face-to-face meeting with Carter at the Walnut Street Theater.

"From what I've heard, we did all right," he said. "And when we get to the next one (Oct. 6 in San Francisco about national defense and foreign policy), we'll do even better."

In addition to the Polish group, Ford also planned to seek other ethnic votes later today with a quick tour of the Italian-American market en route to the Philadelphia airport for a flight back to Washington.

In Washington, the President will receive a report from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on Kissinger's apparent diplomatic success in talks over the explosive Rhodesian situation with southern African leaders.

Ford left the theater Thursday night with aides—who helped his careful preparation for the debate—giving him the thumbs up sign. White House Chief of Staff Richard Cheney later told reporters that Carter was "slightly ahead" before the face-off. But, he added, "my expectation would be that, in the next week or two, we're going to be close—or even ahead."

Doctor Upheld on Refusal

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — A medical association officer Thursday defended a doctor's refusal to treat the 6-year-old daughter of a state legislator who voted against a malpractice law.

Dr. William H. Wade, vice president of the El Paso County Medical Association, said the right to reject patients was important for physicians.

"That might sound offhand, as though it violates some medical ethics," Wade said.

Who Knows The Way?

Political candidates have been exhorted from time immemorial to "run on the issues" rather than try to capture voters with good looks, charm or rhetoric.

Last night's debate suggested that running on the issues may not be practical today, if it ever was.

The big issue this time around, despite all the talk about honesty and sincerity and and such, is the problem of assuring a secure prosperity in which all may fairly share in the years to come.

There's no dispute about the goal — only about how to achieve it.

The disconcerting fact is that neither candidate really knows for sure. Economic experts seem to agree that programs to reduce unemployment are not compatible with strategies designed to stem inflation. But put a bunch of them in a room together and they can't agree about much of anything else. Some believe the best way to create jobs is to give business more money, others want to invent paying jobs for the unemployed so they'll have money to spend, increasing purchases of consumer goods and stimulating business.

They can't agree on which is the chicken and which the egg.

President Ford wants to stimulate the economy by cutting both individual and business taxes, leaving more money in the private sector where the magic of free enterprise can put it to work.

Carter sees free enterprise — if it can be called that these days — as having failed in such critical sectors as the construction industry. He thinks government prodding in the form of loan guarantees, etc., should be used to get things moving again. He believes that once everyone who wants a job has one, other problems will become manageable.

Which approach will work best? The experts don't know, the candidates don't know and no voter knows. In the end, we choose our answers to such questions by our "visceral" feelings, just as we choose our presidents.

So, it seems to us, it may not be inappropriate to seize upon the man who seems to embody the greatest vision, perceptiveness, adaptability and firmness of purpose. Such a man with sail with the wind when it's going his way and stand against it when pushing him toward the reefs. And we'll have some reason to hope he'll know which is which. Considering the uncertainities of our course, the greatest danger may lie in choosing a pilot who is sure he knows the way.

Carter Pledges The Impossible

Dear Editor:

President Gerald R. Ford is a great man, and I would say I do not sxpect the impossible from Jimmy Carter, but I am supporting Ford, and Jimmy has promised me not to disappoint me.

I cannot expect the impossible from Mr. Carter, but he apparently will promise the impossible to everyone.

Abortion Editorial One-Sided

Dear Editor:

I want to comment on your editorial of Sept. 17 concerning the question of abortion. Your line of argumentation contains several invalid assumptions which have gained favor among the public and carry a disproportionate weight in the formulation of public opinion.

First, you state that the Supreme Court i.e., the Supreme Court of the United States, has ruled that women have the right to choose an abortion. This suggests that once the Supreme Court has decided something (even by split decision) the case is closed. If this were true, some 20 per cent of the American public would still be enslaved — the Supreme Court once ruled in favor of slavery. It was only through the dedicated effort of people of conscience that slavery was outlawed — by Constitutional amendment.

Next, you state that a Constitutional amendment does not have the support of a majority of the American voters.

How do you know that?

Where are the statistics to support this claim? I suggest that you have no such statistics. In fact, where the issue has been submitted to voters, they have voted against abortion.

I believe that if our libertarian news me dia were half as dedicated in presenting the scientific, medical and socioeconomic facts of this issue to the public as they are in pushing their own preconceived notions, the public would overwhelmingly support a constitutional amendment.

You point out that the abortion issue is a religious question.

So what?

The Ten Commandments are religious belief also. Would you have us repeal all laws which happen to agree with them? The fact is that every principle of law which this country cherishes was first a Judeo-Christian religious principle. To reject a position on the grounds that it has its roots in religious belief is to invite the total collapse of our society.

Finally, the general thrust of your editorial is that, since people have only strong personal convictions based on religious principles, that they have no grounds for a Constitutional amendment.

If the will fof the people is not sufficient grounds to amend the Constitution, what is?

Attempts such as this to silence oppo ition to abortion or to confin e it to some corner where it can't bother people are doomed to failure. The more you argue in support of your position the more you reveal the absurdity of that position.

Besides, the issue is too big to be ignored.

Finger Points to Right Place

Dear Editor:

In regard to Peter J. Savago's objection to an editorial on Sept. 10 entitled, "What's the Punch Line?" I will have to side with the editor of the Freeman, Mr. Geyer.

I believe it is long past time to point the finger at Mr. Savago, the legislators, Mr. Koenig, the Aldermen of the City of Kingston, the Common Council, and Mr. Len Cane, director of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. One and all, you have let down the good people of this community.

You all talk about welfare costs being too high— 22 million dollars. I agree. You all talk about taxes being too high. I agree. You all talk about the unemployment crisis— -11 per cent . Again I agree. What I do not agree with is the rhetoric of each and every one of you. We must have action to alleviate these problems. The only answer to each and every one of these problems is full employment. It is your duty as elected officials to see that industry is brought into the community and to supply your constituents with jobs, so that men and women can be taken off the welfare rolls and put to work to pay their own way. It is your responsibility to take action on this most serious matter immediately, and to put an end to all ths phoney baloney of political manipulation.

I once owned $185,000 worth of property in Kingston, but because of the high taxes, Central Hudson, and the oil companies, I was forced to sell out. For 25 years I worked hard and paid my share of taxes to the city of Kingston and the Town of Ulster. As the saying goes, "I know of where I speak."

I hope you answer , Mr. Savago and company. Bring jobs to Ulster County and the city of Kingston. Put people to work s o that they who are already working and carrying the full burden of this tax mess will be relieved, and be able to have a few dollars to call their own. The taxes of this community can and must be modified. I call upon each and every one of the political bodies of this community to do your utmost in obtaining jobs for this most depressed area.

I and all taxpayers pay your salaries. I and all taxpayers want our money's worth. I and all taxpayers elected you people to represent us. Gentlemen do your job.

The Right to Know What?

WASHINGTON - Not every journalist who says he'll go to jail before he'll reveal his source should have a hero's medal hung around his neck. A difference exists between a case like Daniel Schorr's of CBS and that of the four newsmen from The Fresno Bee who've just finished a couple of weeks in the pokey for refusing to tell a judge the name of their snitch.

The Bee had published an article based on grand jury testimony concerning allegations of bribery of a public official. The official was subsequently indicted but acquitted, so this struggle revolves around the efforts of the California judiciary to punish an unknown somebody for breaching the secrecy and compromising the integrity of the grand jury system.

Publishing grand jury material is a serious matter. There are no rules of evidence in grand jury proceedings. Any accusation, any gossip, any surmise about anyone is admissible. There is no cross-examination, no adversary questioning, no testing of evidence, no defense counsel. The impressions, the hearsay, the suspicions and the shaky recollections which grand juries get treated to aren't allowed in criminal trials. That's as it should be since the grand jury's job isn't to decide whether somebody is guilty or not, but only to determine if there is even enough evidence to make it worthwhile to try that somebody in front of a regular jury. A grand jury is meant to protect us against malicious and groundless persecutions.

To print grand jury testimony may be much the same as publishing the contents of raw, unverified FBI files, and we know how accurate they can be. Why run this risk of damaging innocent people's reputations? The people's right to know, that nebulous, undefined right, can hardly extend to any and all testimony that may be presented to a grand jury. About the only justification for printing what goes on inside a grand jury room is a strong reason to believe the grand jury itself is failing to perform its duties.

At one of the hearings on the Fresno Bee case, Jack Nelson of the Los Angeles Times and a premier American journalist said he thought that grand jury leaks to the newspapers helped Judge John Sirica in opening up the Watergate case.

Even if what Nelson says is so, that doesn't constitute a sufficient reason for newspapers to arrogate to themselves the right to make other grand jury proceedings public. Most of the crimes grand juries busy themselves with are serious felonies, but they seldom have important public policy implications. Watergate can't be used as a justification for damaging peopls's lives and privacy. Remember, once an indictment is handed down, the responsible accusations and the evidence in the case is made public during the trial.

To claim that the First Amendment absolves the media of the obligation to respect the confidentiality of grand jury testimony is coming close to using the people's right to know as a smokescreen to profit from gossip. All manner of foul, unsubstantiated and untrue things are said to grand juries that a newspaper wouldn't dare print without the excuse it was quoting from a public record. Which brings up an important question: Do the First Amendment absolutists contend a television station can steal, suborn or be the recipient of any kind of filth uttered in a grand jury room, broadcast it and be immune from the libel laws?

That is the case with an open trial. At an open trial, however, there is a judge who is supposed to exercise close control over what may be said; there is also a defense attorney to challenge and offer rebuttal testimony. Thus it's reasonable and fair to give the media immunity over reporting what is said at trial, but none of these protections exist with grand juries where there is no judge and no defense.

In recent years grand juries themselves, particularly Federal ones, have come under attack for having been perverted into unchecked prosecutorial tools. The power of a district attorney to use the grand jury as an instrument of terror will be enhanced if he can selectively leak from the grand jury without worry about being punished for his indiscretions, because the leakees cannot be held accountable either for how they got the information or the harm broadcasting it may have caused.

The people's right to know is a fine phrase, but the people themselves may decide to forgo their right if it is interpreted to mean that no level of government, regardless of function, can keep any sort of information confidential. Media executives can warble quotations from Thomas Jefferson on the free press till the cows come home and they're not going to convince anyone that The Daily Planet has a right to publish somebody's tax returns just because the somsbody is "under suspicion" or "in line for a high appointment" or has been accused in front of a grand jury of having sex with the spouse of a procurement officer.

That's why the Daniel Schorr case is so different from the Fresno one, in which the evidence against the official accused of bribery was subsequently made public at the trial at which he was acquitted. What was the need to break the seal of secrecy

Doing My Best on Camera

It was a hot day in Los Angeles. The giant city broiled. Kelly and I took a cab from the Beverly Hills Hotel downtown. It was a long haul with no shock absorbers and a rear end which ran like a pencil sharpener. We bounced like irritated strangers.

This was a day that I was dressed like an author. I wore a white-on-white shirt, a diagonally striped tie of black and pale blue, a new black silk suit, high gloss black shoes, and white hair parted on the right side.

The taxi driver said the address was a blind alley. Kelly shrugged. Her blonde hair was tied in a bun on the back of her head. The pale blue silk dress - no matter what she wore she looked like a classic Greek coin. If she irritated me on a hot day, I'd spend her.

It was a blind alley. The television studio was set up inside something that looked like a World War I hangar. I hoped there was air conditioning in the studio. It was dark. I fell over the lintel to one knee.

I swore. Somebody said "Shh!" Kelly whispered, "I can't take you anywhere." I got to my feet. It was a big empty darkness. We walked around a painted scene of cool woodlands and saw a couch, a man and a camera.

The man pointed to the couch. We sat. There was a lot of silence. I was here to promote a book. I had a head full of two kinds of answers: one in case he read the book; one in case he hadn't.

He came to the couch and whispersd, "I'm Joe. I run the afternoon movie. We'll put you on at the commercials." He asked Mrs. B. to get off ths couch. He was back in front of his camera just in time to watch Sonny Tufts fall off a horse, wounded, into the arms of Lupe Velez. The little monitor went blank and Joe came on. He talked about Zest soap and Oxydol. Then he extolled the virtues of a water bed and who to call to condemn all the cockroaches in the kitchen.

Sonny Tufts came back. He didn't die. The movie did. I wondered why writers must not only write books, but go to dank studios to sell them. In his letter, this man said he had 200,000 Los Angeles housewives working at ironing boards every afternoon, all of them panting to buy my book.

I lit a cigarette. In the darkness behind the camera, I noticed a second man. He wore rabbit ears. I became interested in the monitor. I knew that 200,000 housewives were burning the old man's shorts watching Sonny Tufts fight seven maddened Indians inside a prairie hut.

He killed them one by one while his wife leaned against the log cabin wall with her fist in her mouth. Tufts pulled an arrow out of his shoulder and made a face. One thing - he had guts. Another thing - I had guts watching.

The monitor went blank. Joe motioned to me to put the cigarette out. There was no ashtray. I couldn't extinguish it on the little 5 by 7 rug. I squeezed the light between my fingers and, like Sonny, I made a face.

Joe came over. He sat beside me, one arm over the back of the couch. He said what he says to all hacks. "One of the greatest writers of our time - loved his new book - tell the people the name of it." My face, in repose, is Early Cast Iron. I wondered what would happen if I killed Joe live, on camera.

I spoke like a parrot. The best way to appear at ease is to cross your legs and clasp your hands over them. It is pose 3-E for authors caught in an impossible situation. The book was a matter of history. Joe asked me how it came out at the end.

I took my hands off the knee. Something began to unravel. I looked. My bare knee was exposed. The fall had loosened a thread, or a series of them. Qui etly the silk suit came apart. The crease on the leg opened until my leg was exposed from the lower shin to the white shorts.

Joe stared as though I was kinky. I started to choke. Then I lau ghed. The whole hairy leg was exposed. I noticed smoke. It was coming from between the cushions of the couch. My cigarette had set fire to it.

I slapped a hand on the cushion. Blue smoke shrouded the couch. "Good," I said between convulsions. "Everybody back to the ironing board."...

Ex-Mob Figures Aid Law

WASHINGTON — Cosa Nostra hoodlums, many of them sworn to silence by blood oaths, are defecting to the Justice Department by the dozens. One reason for this astonishing development in the war against organized crime is a quiet, new method of handling defectors.

Two years ago, we reported in a series of columns that defectors from the mob were put on the witness stand, granted new identities and then left largely to fend for themselves. Many of them, with only crimimal skills, were unable to make an honest living. We wrote that one prime ex-Mafia witness was told coldly to "go on welfare."

Last May, the Justice Department quietly changed its whole approach. Insiders say our columns helped to persuade government officials that they needed to offer more inducement to get mobsters to testify against their cohorts.

Now the department helps to rehabilitate underworld defectors. They are even offered psychiatric counseling to help them adjust to Chevrolets after a life of Cadillacs.

Gerald Shur, a government attorney, has also been calling on the top executive of 150 major firms, with a startling request. He has urged them to take a chance on hiring ex-Mafia men.

One Southern bank gamely employed a former armed robber. He is doing so well that his community wants him to run for the city council. But the ex-hoodlum has gratefully refused. He fears this would lead to newspaper photographs, which might betray his new identity.

All told, an amazing 1,650 underworld witnesses have testified against their former associates. Many defected during the past year. They were given new identities and were placed in jobs, usually without any need for government subsistence.

But 260 former mobsters, now living under different names after testifying for the state, are drawing government support. This is an increase of 30 during the past year.

As part of the unpublicized new drive against organized crime, the Justice Department is also using volunteer Mafia defectors to persuade pals still in the mob to turn state's witnesses.

Three months ago, for example, a Mafia mobster active in the narcotics and usury rackets was summoned into a federal investigator's office for a "routine" talk. He had been fingered by a former underworld friend, who said the racketeer was tired of the hassle from gangland enemies and, therefore, should be ripe for defection.

After the racketeer arrived in the investigator's office, his former crony entered from a side door. The two men talked alone. In the end, the visitor agreed that he, too, would take his chances with the Justice Department.

In exchange for their testimony, the defectors are given new identities and relocated far from their old underworld habitats. Each witness gets a false birth certificate, driver's permit, Social Security card, baptismal document, and sometimes, a passport. If he is married, his wife is also given a complete new identity. Then a "stop" is put on their fingerprints in the FBI files.

If the defector should be picked up and fingerprinted, the local police would send the prints to the FBI for a check. An FBI agent or U.S. marshal would then drop by to explain the situation to the local police chief.

The charges aren't fixed, but the defector is tried under his new identity. Less than 100 defectors are still in prison, some serving out old sentences, others for new offenses. But these prisoners are carefully located in "sa fe" prisons, with no records of their former identities.

The new deal for Cosa Nostra defectors grew out of secret meetings among U.S. attorneys and strike force heads. They agreed that more defectors were needed to curb organized crime.

Among those who pushed hardest to make defection more attractive were Justice Department attorney Gerald Shur, chief U.S. Marshal William Hall and John Rogers of the U.S. Marshal's office.

Our own underworld contacts confirm that the new program has made godfathers from Boston to Los Angeles more uneasy than they have been in decades.

FATAL ERROR: Bureaucratic bungling by the Army sent Sgt. Brian P. Russell to his death in Vietnam in 1971. More bungling today threatens to deny the sergeant's mother the relief she deserves for the loss of her son.

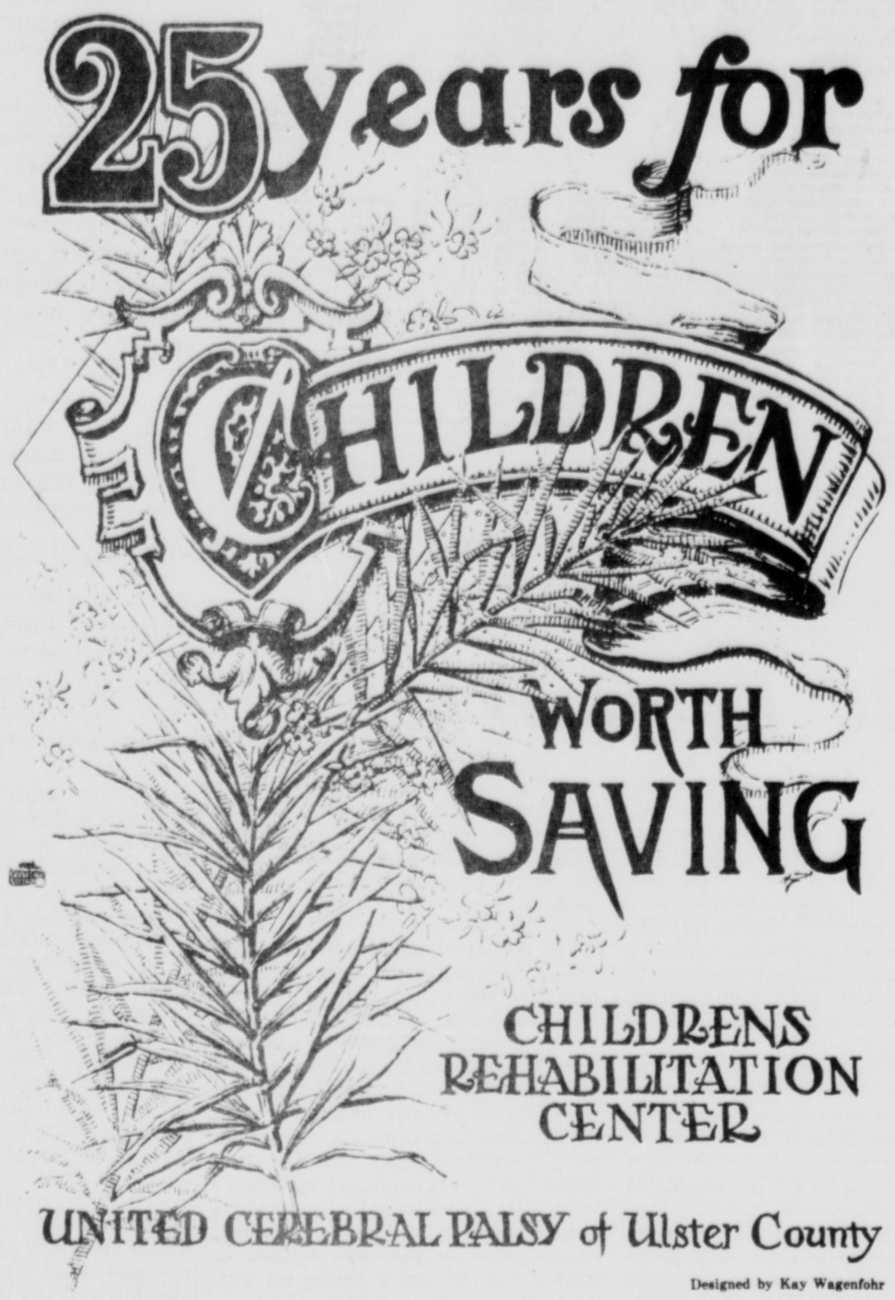

Over Russell's protests and in violation of its own regulations, the Army reassigned him to combat only nine months after his recovery from battle wounds. The reason was that the Army had neglected to insert in his personnel file any record of his hospitalization.

Russell was killed by a booby trap in Vietnam, even though he was ineligible for Vietnam duty. His grieving mother, Mrs. Loretta Sloan, called the travesty to the attention of Sen. Strom Thrumond, R.-S.C., and Rep. John Jenrette, D.-S.C. They introduced bills to award Mrs. Sloan $500,000 for the loss of her son.

Thurmond has done little to push the bill, except to issue a press release. It has become lost, meanwhile, in the bureaucratic maze.

We tried to track it down. We learned that the Army is opposed to paying Mrs. Sloan. Its report was submitted to the White House budget office, which relayed it to the Justice Department for its recommendation. The Justice Department, according to our sources, will send it back to the Army for revisions.

Community Focus Programs at Bard

ANNANDALE ON HUDSON—The goal of Bard College's new discussion series Community Focus is an ambitious one, but the subjects are pertinent locally as well as in a more humanistic sense.

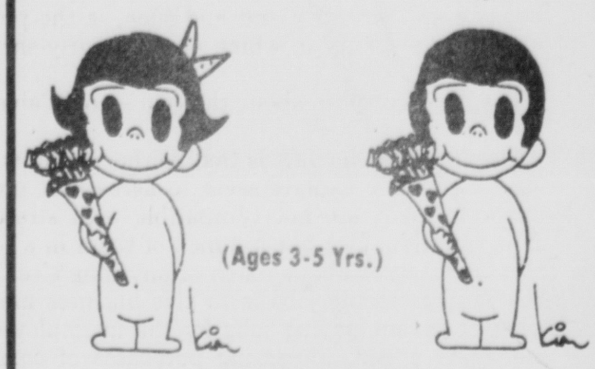

It is described in a college newsletter as "a monthly discussion series which brings the humanist perspective to critical issues of local and national significance," and begins Sept. 28 with a distinguished panel dealing with "Zoning and Planning in a Small Town."

The series is funded by the New York Council for the Humanities toward the end of raising consciousness on issues of "regional and local significance which have immediate community implications."

Other programs planned are: accountability and the public schools; economic planning for our society; nuclear power plants in the Hudson River Valley; the Unification Church in Barrytown vs. the Red Hook Town Zoning Board of Appeals; the Dutchess County Jail; PCBs in the Hudson River; and death and dying.

Formats will vary, with some panel discussions, debates, lecture presentations, and seminar discussions, all presented by "experts" in the particular field, according to the college. All will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday evenings at various places throughout the community.

The Sept. 28 session in the Rhinebeck Town Hall will include panelists Sally Mazzarella, chairman of the town of Rhinsbeck planning board; Victor Weingarten, New York City real estate developer with large land holdings in Rhinebeck; Colton Johnson, professor of English and Dean of Studies at Vassar College and a resident of Rhinebeck; James G. Lotto, a member of the Rhinebeck Planning Group from the Cornell University School of Architecture; and Mark Lytle, Associate Professor of History and Faculty Moderator for the program.

DEAR ABBY

Dentist Aggravates Patient by Whistling 'Easter Parade'...Over and Over and Over

DEAR ABBY: I'm in the process of having some root canal work done, which is no picnic, but that's not my problem. It's my dentist. While he works, he whistles through his teeth.

I wouldn't mind a little Herb Alpert or Burt Bacharach, but no, my dentist keeps whistling "Easter Parade" over and over again until I am ready to scream?

Not only that, but he calls me "Mrs. Grassfield," and my name is Mrs. Greenfield.

Should I deduct 20 per cent from my bill for aggravation? —MRS. GREENFIELD

DEAR MRS. GREENFIELD: You could try. Maybe he's already added 20 per cent for entertainment.

DEAR ABBY: I recently moved to this city to be near my married son and his family. Although my son and his wife have many fine traits, they use foul language that I find very offensive.

I frequently babysit with their children (ages 5 and 9), and I am horrified to hear these children use the same vulgar four-letter words their parents use.

I have told my son and his wife it offends me, and I've asked them not to allow their children to talk that way, but they say I'm old-fashioned and prudish, and everybody talks that way today. (Do they?)

I was also told I'm not to discipline their children because that's the parents' job.

Have our values become so depraved that clean speech, modesty and respect for others no longer exist? What am I to do?—HEARTBROKEN IN HARTFORD

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: You can decline to babysit with your grandchildren. Clean speech, modesty and respect for others still exist in some homes, but unfortunately not in your son's.

DEAR ABBY: I've never seen a problem like mine in your column.

I have two fathers who are equally dear to me. My "real" (biological) father and my adoptive father.

When I was four, my parents were divorced, but my father always kept in close touch and let me know that he loved me all the years I was growing up.

My mother remarried when I was six, and I can truthfully say that my adoptive father could not have been more wonderful to me.

I am being married at a church wedding. My problem is which father I should choose to give me away. I don't want to hurt the feelings of either father by choosing the other. It was suggested that the ideal solution would be to have an uncle give me away. Please help me.—TORN

DEAR TORN: What not ask both fathers to share the honor? And when the clergyman asks, "Who gives this bride away?" both fathers can respond in unison, "We do."

Check this out with your clergyman. You are twice blessed.

ERMA BOMBECK

Number of Garbage Bags Is Status Symbol

I don't care how good of a shape the economists say we're in. I can always tell the way this country is moving by the old Grocery-Bag-Under-the-Sink principle.

Here's the way it works. I bring my groceries home from the store in brown paper bags. When they are emptied I store them under the sink. They are used to line the waste can and hold garbage.

On Wednesday of last week I reached under the sink for a bag. There were none. This can mean only one thing. My food supply is not keeping step with the amount of garbage. Or, there is more garbage going out than there is food coming in.

My husband says this is not possible. "Why would you have more garbage than you have food in the first place? That is not logical."

"Neither is gaining three pounds in the delivery room, but it happened."

"You're confusing me. You should have more than enough garbage bags. Maybe the carry-out boys are packing them fuller these days."

"Impossible. You saw my week's supply in the glove compartment."

"Maybe you are becoming a better cook."

",Do you really believe that?"

"No."

"I don't know how I can face the neighborhood."

"What are you talking about?" he asked.

"We've always been a five-garbage-can family. How do you think we're going to look when we keep coming down to four . . . then three . . . then . . . have you no pride? I know, maybe we could circulate a rumor we bought a disposer? Or that all of us are on diets? Or we could pile in the car every evening and pretend we're eating out."

"I do not believe this conversation is going on," he said. "Where are you going?"

"To the store to buy three bagfuls of things I don't need. I don't know about you, but I can't live like this from day to day . . . not knowing where my next brown bag is coming from."

American retailers are posting strong sales figures this year, The Conference Board finds. Spending at retail counters is up 13 per cent over a year ago. Even though 5 per cent is due to inflation, that still leaves an 8 per cent jump in real spending. The largest gains are being shown for major durable goods, such as cars, where dollar sales are up over 20 per cent. Sales for apparel and home furnishings are up 8 per cent over 1975.

Work on the new county parking lot behind the Fair Street office building is continuing on schedule. County highway department crews level off the sand lot in preparation for the contractors, approved at Thursday's special session of the legislature, to blacktop, install lighting and construct a decorative stone fence. The county will charge for parking at the site.

Name Calling Erupts In Senate Seat Race

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S. Senate campaign in New York has become a long-distance, name-calling contest between incumbent Sen. James Buckley and Democratic challenger Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

In a full page ad in Thursday's New York Times, the Democrats for Jim Buckley Committee attacked the former U.N. ambassador by asking, "What is it about Daniel Patrick Moynihan that disturbs so many of his fellow Democrats?"

Responding to the ad, which was signed by defeated Democratic senatorial contender Abe Hirschfeld, Moynihan issued a strongly worded statement charging Buckley with campaigning with "a succession of distorted and mean personal attacks."

"These attacks are not pleasant to read, but I can understand why Mr. Buckley would rather campaign this way than to run on his record in the Senate, where he has achieved almost nothing in the way of concrete legislative help for the people of New York State," the Moynihan statement said.

Neither candidate participated personally in the exchange. Buckley was in Washington and Moynihan spent the day at his farm in West Davenport.

Citing Moynihan's connection with the Nixon-Agnew administration, the advertisement broadened the question by pointing out he also worked for Presidents Kennedy, Johnson and Ford.

"These four presidents disagreed on just about every major domestic and foreign policy question. But Moynihan somehow found it comfortable to work for each of them," the ad said.

"What does that say about Moynihan? That he is a dedicated public servant? Maybe. But the question is: dedicated to what? And to whom? And for how long?"

Moynihan said, "I cannot doubt that before the campaign is over, Mr. Buckley will have thought up some new names to call me. Given some of his new associates (apparently meaning Hirschfeld), this is a probability that approaches certainty.

"But he will have trouble thinking up a new record for himself in Washington."

In other campaign developments, Moynihan was endorsed by the New York State AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education.

Cutting Red Tape, No New Taxes

State Aim: Business a Partner

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — The Carey administration told a group of top business executives Thursday night that it will launch a major campaign against over-regulation of private enterprise and will not raise taxes next year.

State Industrial Commissioner Philip Ross, reading a prepared text of Gov. Hugh Carey's speech, told the 62nd annual meeting of Associated Industries of New York that state officials were "sharpening up our scissors" to cut red tape.

Ross delivered the speech as Carey watched the evening's Ford-Carter presidential debate on television at the Executive Mansion in Albany and later offered a reaction to the debate, at the request of Carter campaign officials.

In the address, Carey said he and Commerce Commissioner John Dyson were trying to make business a partner in state government.

He thanked business for its help in getting the state out of the fiscal morass that almost toppled state financing during the past year.

Carey promised that his 1977-78 budget, to be introduced in January, would have no new taxes and no new programs that could not be paid for with current income.

In his prepared address, Carey told the business group, "We have seen the effects of strangulation by regulation, and we've been sharpening up our scissors."

He also said his administration had tried to streamline government. "From an entity that often seemed to make things worse ... we have tried to turn government into an active partner in the development and growth of New York," he said.

Talking about the budget, Carey said, "And when Hugh Carey submits his budget ... I promise you there will be no programs we cannot pay for, no new taxes to take on expenses we can't afford."

Promising close review of all agency budget requests, Carey said, "No service is exempt from scrutiny on the say so of precedent. Every program must meet the essential question — is it working?"

A zero-base budgeting concept is being used in reviewing asppropriation requests, Carey said.

The governor also voiced support for Commerce Commissioner Dyson, a strong advocate of making the state more attractive for business and a critic of inefficiency in state government.

Saying Dyson "speaks effectively to the business community in New York," Carey said he is "in day to day contact with John, and he has my firm and complete support."

Saying some critics charged the governor's office was not running state government directly, Carey said, "You put good people in charge, and you give them the authority to do the job."

He added that, "If they don't perform, you get someone else to do the job."

Carey also discussed the state's financial recovery, saying, "The signs of renewed confidence are everywhere."

He said there has been a "resurgence" of state fiscal integrity, and cited cooperation with business in the recovery.

Hastings Still Favored

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — The board of directors of Associated Industries of New York has called for the re-election of former Rep. James Hastings, indicted this week for an alleged kickback scheme while in Congress, as president of the group.

The board, at a meeting Thursday, also voted to recommend that Hastings be granted a leave of of absence until the federal charges against him are resolved.

The full membership of Assoicated Industries, representing most major businesses in the state, was to formally voted on Hasting's re-election today.

The business group is meeting in this Adirondack Mountain resort in its annual convention.

After Thursday's meeting, Board Chairman John Koessler Jr. of Buffalo announced that Hastings would take of leave "with pay" effective Dec. 1 because of the "demands on his time" required to defend himself in court.

Koessler said the board's vote represented "enthusiastic respect and confidence" in Hastings, who earns $52,500 as president of the group.

The actual vote of the board and the name of the person to replace him during the leave were not disclosed.

The action was taken at a three-hour board meeting described by one of the participants as a "very realistic session." Hastings appeared before the board for nearly an hour.

The former western New York Republican was indicted on charges that he obtained kickbacks from three staff members while a congressman to meet living expenses and to buy automobiles, boats and snowmobiles.

Hastings served in Congress from 1969 until he resigned Jan. 20 to become president of Associated Industries. He has been unavailable for comment since the indictment.

A federal grand jury charged that Hastings used kickbacks to pay for "automobiles, boats, snowmobiles, services, the defendant's children's college tuition, the defendant's New York State employe retirement fund and other expenses."

Many Children Lack Polio Doses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A leading government health official says millions of American children are still vulnerable to polio and many of them are in big cities where the disease could spread quickly.

Dr. David Sencer, director of the government's Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, told UPI in an interview that 8 million children under 10 haven't had the recommended three or more doses of polio vaccine necessary to provide immunity.

He said 2.5 million of them have received no vaccine at all and the other 5.5 million are inadequately immunized.

Sencer testified earlier Thursday before a Senate health subcommittee concerned over a shortage of polio vaccine and the abundance of children who haven't been immunized.

"We've been going downhill in childhood immunizations in this country and I want to find out why," said Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark. "We are sitting on a keg of dynamite."

Dr. Harold Ginsburg, professor of microbiology at Columbia University, agreed with Bumpers. He said it stemmed from "the problem of the delivery of medical care in the cities."

Ginsburg said parents aren't well educated to the health needs of their children, the vaccine isn't readily available to them, and to get it they may have to leave their jobs and sit for hours in public clinics.

Witnesses said the current shortages of polio vaccine should be eliminated in a few weeks. CDC officials said the shortages have resulted in vaccine being rationed in some areas.

"Fortunately, we have not seen any increase in disease as a result of this temporary slippage and had there been, we do maintain a stockpile to use for outbreak control," said Dr. James F. Dickson, deputy assistant secretary for health in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The CDC said the vaccine shortage was due to the insistence of one supplier, Lederle Laboratories, that all persons receiving the vaccine through public health facilities sign an informed consent form that warns of the vaccine's possible harmful side effects.

Dr. Jonas Salk, developer of one of two vaccines, which made it possible to reduce the number of polio cases from 38,476 in 1954 to seven in 1974, said "the major cause of polio" in the United States now is vaccines themselves.

All...to All

BOSTON (UPI) — Jimmy Carter has "the vision of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the courage of Harry S. Truman, the intellect of John F. Kennedy and the compassion of Lyndon B. Johnson."

That's the unabashed opinion of former House Speaker John W. McCormack, issued as he became honorary chairman of Jimmy Carter's presidential campaign in Massachusetts.

Coleman defenders, right, move in on Red Hook player

Hustle Doesn't Quite Make Up For Coleman's Inexperience

By J.P. O'SHAUGHNESSY
Freeman Staff

KINGSTON — For Coleman High School's field hockey team, Thursday's game against Red Hook was a case where their hustle almost began to make up for inexperience — but not quite.

The visiting Raiders opened their defense of the Ulster County Athletic League championship with a 4-0 victory that left Deb Getty's girls winless and still scoreless in two outings this season. They had previously lost to Section Nine champ Onteora, 3-0.

"Well, we've started off with two of the biggies," said coach Getty. "It's going to fesl awfully good to get that first goal. It'll help the girls' confidence."

From the opening whistle, Red Hook put almost constant pressure on Coleman's goal, a fact illustrated by the imbalance in the number of corner hits, 24 to 1 in favor of Red Hook. Even so, the game was fairly even until the last ten minutes, when, playing virtually within the home team's striking circle, Red Hook collected seven corner hits and broke loose for three goals to put the game away.

For most of the first half, Coleman stayed in its own end of the field trying to keep the wolf away from the door. Time and again they would be able to clear the ball away without being able to dribble or pass it effectively downfield, thus yielding to ball to Red Hook's front line. With five minutes left in the half, Donna Schultz poked one past goalie Beth Hooker from two feet out for the games first score.

After that Coleman seemed to become more aggressive, led by some excellent blocks and long shots by Janet Knott, and the game settled into a contrast of styles for the next 20 minutes: Red Hook's more controlled, skillful dribbling and advancing of the ball, and Coleman's hustling, lunging, frequently out of position scrambling for the ball. Several times the Green and White drove into the opposition's striking area, only to be betrayed by their failure to follow up the play or ths inability to stickhandle quickly and cleanly.

Coleman seemed to tire, though, in the later stages of the game, and after Connie Vosburgh sailsd a somewhat disputed shot over Beth Hooker's right shoulder — some thought the ball had been slapped rather than lofted —Patty Kowalski scored on a breakaway three minutes latsr to make the score 3-0.

The Raiders last goal came on a penalty stroke when Janet Knott, the subject of zeveral Raider complaints that she was hitting the ball intentionally out of bounds to avoid being scored upon, was called for the illegal tactic with just 30 seconds remaining. Red Hook's Denise Sevigny lofted the ball beautifully into the right corner of the net as Beth Hooker could only watch it sail over her head.

"I'm very proud of the way the girls played," said coach Getty. "We're rebuilding this year, and today Red Hook was just better than us, especially in the basic skills."

Red Hook coach Perri Ksefe allowed that her girls played well, but that it was not a very "wide open"game because of the abbreviated size of ths field and the erratic performances of both teams. "Coleman will inprove this season," shs said. "Right now they're inexperienced, not working smoothly together."

In another UCAL field hockey game played Thursday, Onteora got strong performances from Gail Duffy, Carol Gilsinger and Dawn Outhout in shutting out Wallkill, 3-0.

"Gail's meeting of the other team's offenss and her overall play has been a key factor in many of our goals," said OCS coach Carol Okoren. Halfbacks Outhout and Gilsinger are two excellent reasons why the Indians are unscored upon so far this season. Okoren described the game as "a little sluggish, overall."

Rondout Valley and Pine Bush High Schools battled to a scoreless tie in the first half and then turned it all loose in the second, with PB coming out on top, 4-1. Sherry Gage and Karen Gage each had a pair of goals for Pine Bush, while the Ganders lone score came on a shot by Kathy Roosa. The win moves the Pine Bush to 2-0 in the UCAL, while Rondout is still looking for its first win after two losses.

New Paltz High School came from behind in the second half to defeat Ellenville, 2-1, in what was described as a "very even" contest.

Cynthia Thompson scored on a breakaway in the first half to put the Ellies up 1-0, but her team had some passing and blocking lapses in the second period and were unable to add to their score.

New Paltz' Dsbby Drahos, however, scored two goals in the second half to gives the Hugies the victory.

Yanks Stumbling at Finish

'We Have to Regroup'

NEW YORK (UPI) — First it was the Philadelphia Phillies, then the Kansas City Royals and now it's the New York Yankees who have begun to stumble and stall at the sight of a division title.

Three days ago, the Yankees looked forward to clinching their first American League pennant of sorts since 1964—in front of their hometown fans. All they needed was to win two games of a four-game set with the obviously "dead" Baltimore Orioles.

They lost all four.

The Orioles completed the four-game sweep Thursday night when Ken Singleton's ninth inning single off Catfish Hunter scored Paul Blair with the winning run in a 2-1 victory. Blair opened the ninth with a single and moved all the way to third when Graig Nettles fielded Bobby Grich's sacrifice bunt but did not get back to cover third in time.

Prior to that, loser Hunter, 16-15, and winner Mike Flanagan, 3-4, had engaged in a pitching duel which saw the Yankees score in the sixth on three singles and the Orioles come back to tie it in the seventh on a double by Grich and a triple by Singleton.

"We just have to regroup and it may be easier on the road," said Yankee right fielder Lou Piniella. "We just got outpitched by the Orioles in this series. I think all of us were trying too hard and the Orioles were really up for this series."

Indeed, the Orioles and their manager Earl Weaver have nothing to lose now. They began the week trailing the Yankees by 11-½ games with seemingly no chance of catching them. Weaver, meanwhile, reportedly will not be back with the club next season unless the Orioles offer him a long term contract—an unlikely occurrence for a second place finish.

Now the Orioles are 7-½ games back, the Yankees' magic number remains at three and, presuming the Yankees wrap things up this weekend, Weaver can go out with a smile.

"You can't say we're in it, but then you can't say we're out of it either," grinned the Orioles' skipper.

'5' Is Magic for Phils, KC

The magic number is five for both the Philadelphia Phillies and the Kansas City Royals but rolling it looks a trifle easier for the former than for the latter.

Five is the magic number for both after the Phillies defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 7-3 Thursday night and the Royals lost to the Oakland A's 8-1. The Phillies have recovered from their recent slump with four victories in their last five games and the Royals have lost two straight to the A's but they actually are in the same position as far as winning their division titles.

Should the Phillies win five of their remaining 11 games they would finish the season with 97 victories—one more than the Pittsburgh Pirates can achieve if they win all nine of their remaining games. By winning five of their remaining nine games, the Royals would wind up with 93 victories—one more than the A's would have if they won their last nine games.

The difference is that the Phillies have no games left with the Pirates while the Royals must face Oakland three more times.

And so the pennant races go into their final stages with the Phillies and Royals nearing their pennant-clinchers and the New York Yankees stumbling at the finish line. The Yankees lost to the Baltimore Orioles 2-1 Thursday night, for their fourth straight defeat but still have a magic number of three.

Steve Carlton allowed seven hits in eight innings and raised his record to 19-6 with the ninth-inning relief help of Ron Reed as the Phillies won their third game in a row. Carlton, a late-season candidate for Cy Young honors, struck out nine and walked three.

Tim McCarver's two-run homer was the big blow of a three-run fourth inning which gave the Phillies a 4-0 lead. McCarver and four other players had two hits each as the Phillies dealt Andy Rasmussen his 12th loss.

The Pirates remained six games behind the Pirates despite a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs, achieved when Ed Ott doubled in the winning run in the 10th inning. Reliever Dave Giusti won his fifth game while Darold Knowles suffered his seventh setback.

Mike Torrez pitched a fivehitter for his seventh win in his last eight decisions as the proud A's, five-time winners of the Western Division, cut the Royals' lead to five games.

New York at Montreal was rained out and the Los Angeles Dodgers topped the San Francisco Giants 4-1 in the other NL games while the Boston Red Sox routed

Dodgers 4, Giants 1

Burt Hooton pitched a threehitter for his 11th victory as the Dodgers dealt John Montefusco his 14th loss against 15 victories. Dave Lopes, who singled and scored the Dodgers' first run on a single by Reggie Smith, stole three bases to give him 59 and the National League lead.

Red Sox 10, Brewers 3

Bill Lee pitched a nine-hitter and Jim Rice, extending his hitting streak to 10 games, hit his 24th homer to lead the Red Sox to their 10th win in their last 11 games. The win raised Lee's record to 5-7 while Bill Travers sagged to 15-15 for the Brewers.

Twins 3, White Sox 0

Craig Kusick knocked in three runs with a sacrifice fly and a single as Pete Redfern went the distance on a three-hitter for his seventh victory for the Twins. Loser Ken Brett had a no-hitter for the White Sox until Larry Hisle tripled to open the eighth.

Rangers 6, Angels 5

Mike Hargrove's seventh homer with one out in the ninth inning lfited Texas to victory after California had tied the score with two runs in the eighth. Steve Hargan, who relieved Tommy Boggs in the eighth, gained the win, his seventh.

Roosevelt, Marlboro Coaches Impressed by Their Next Foes

Presidents Facing KHS; Sawyers Home

By STEVE KANE
Freeman Staff

KINGSTON — One of the people in Dietz Stadium last Saturday who watched Kingston High beat John Jay in its DCSL football opener was Roosevelt coach Bob Bragg. That's one of the reasons why the Presidents will be well prepared this Saturday when KHS pays a visit for the league's key game of the week.

In other DCSL matchups, Saugerties (0-1-0) hosts Ketcham (1-0), Arlington (1-0) takes on Poughkeepsie (0-1-0) and Beacon (0-1) goes to Lourdes (0-1).

This will be Roosevelt's league opener, but FDR has had a game already, a 7-6 loss to Newburgh. That was almost an upsst of the highly regarded Goldbacks, so Kingston knows it's in for a test also.

What Bragg saw at Dietz impressed him. "Kingston looked pretty good. Their defense was exceptionally strong, and their offense on that first drive just put it right in under adverse conditions. They controlled the ball, and as for the fumbles, they hurt everybody on opening day, and the conditions were poor besides," he said.

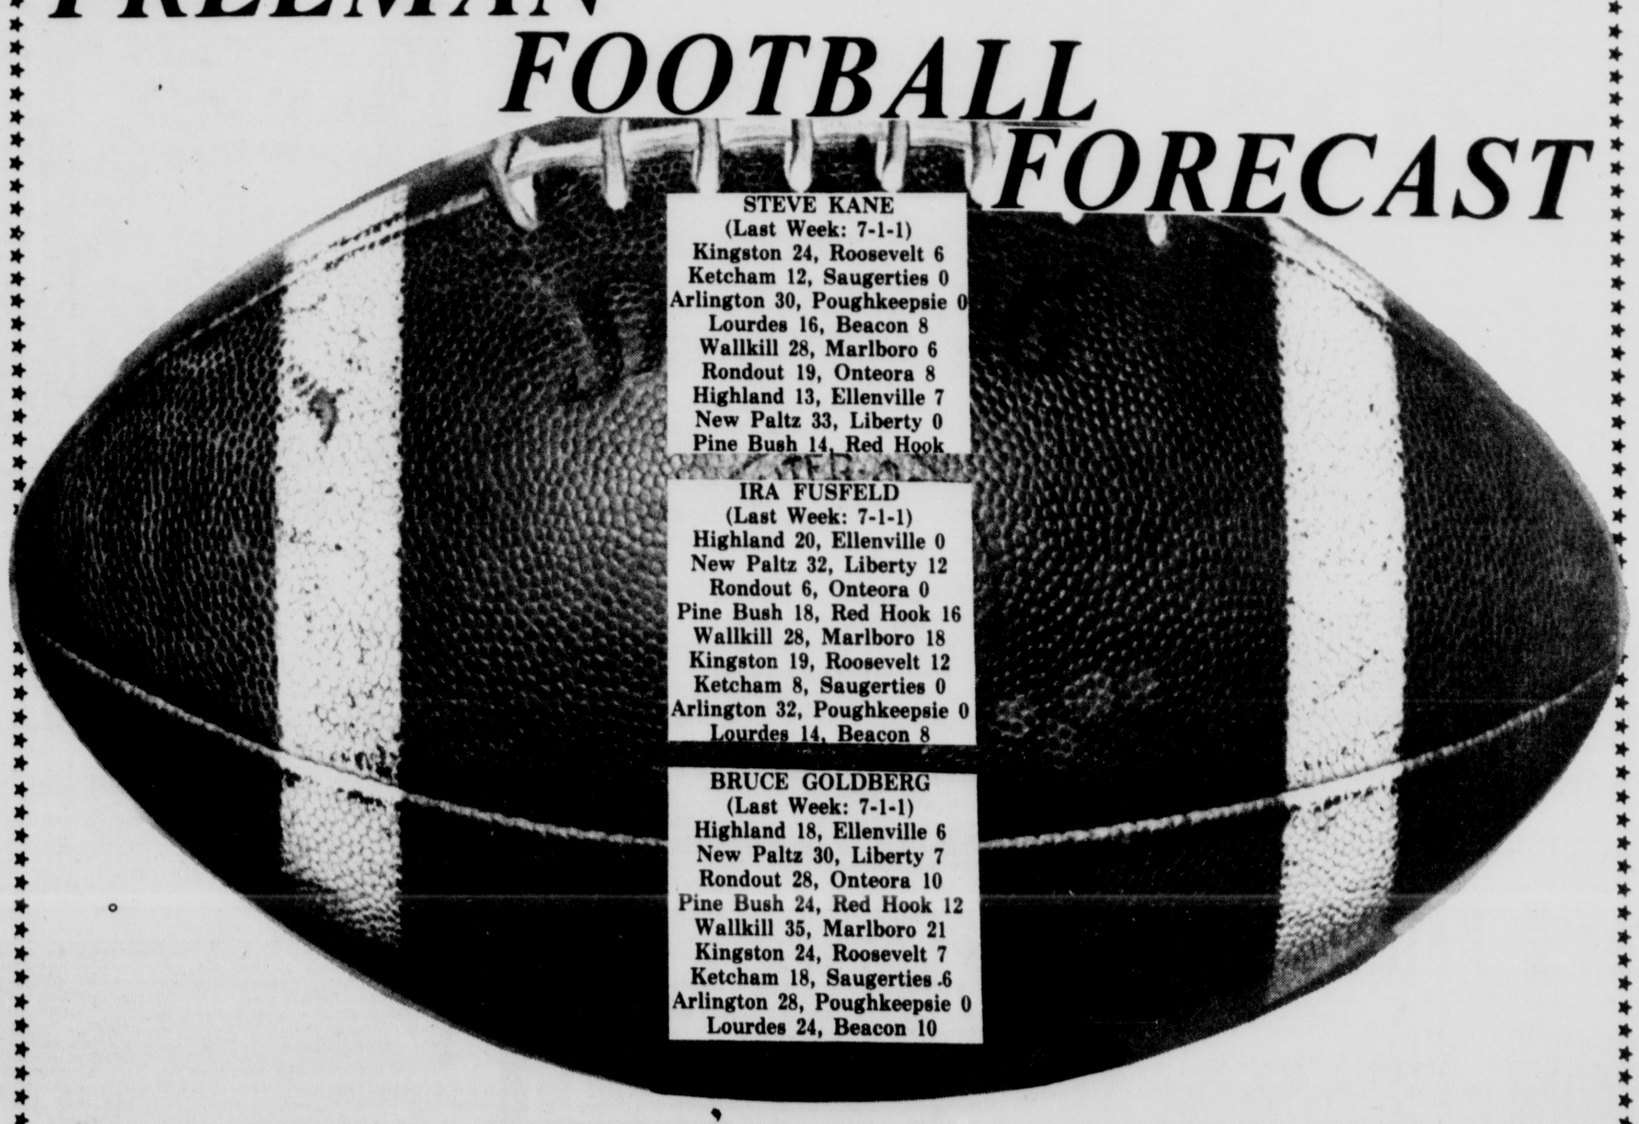

It was the Tiger defensive front that struck Bragg most.

"That goal line stand was super," he said referring to the performance that saved the 20-0 victory margin. "I would say Kingston is stronger than Newburgh defensively. They're bigger, and their kids are not fat."

Roosevelt could have claimed a moral victory for its showing against NFA, but Bragg contends losing the victory was a negative influence. "We weren't satisfied. We had a chance to win and we blew it. The kids are down about it, and that's

Dukes Host Tough Wallkill In UCAL Match

By BRUCE GOLDBERG
Freeman Staff

KINGSTON—Marlboro High varsity football coach Dennis Burkett is not fooling himself about Saturday's game against Wallkill. He is not suffering from delusions of grandeur although the Dukes so thoroughly beat Red Hook last week, 28-8, to provide the first surprise of the young Ulster County Athletic League grid season.

"There's not much you can tell off one game's performance," said Burkett. "Wallkill has essentially the same team as last year. Thomas (George), Inkell (Dan) and Collier (Harry) have been terrorizing the UCAL for three years.

"You have to keep everything in perspective," stressed Burkett. "Ws have to be realistic. Everybody's talking about it as a big game, but I see it as just another game. We're not contenders. If we beat Wallkill, then it's different."

Wallkill visits Marlboro, Rondout is at Onteora and Red Hook goes to Pine Bush in Saturday's UCAL games. In games that were to have been played this aftsrnoon, Highland was at Ellenville and New Paltz was at Liberty.

Burkett's caution is understandable. Wallkill stunned Pine Bush, 34-7, as Thomas scored four touchdowns and gained 180 yards. Wallkill gained over 300 yards against the Bushmen, who were regarded as one of the UCAL's top defensive teams.

But the Dukes were not slouches themselves. They racked up 355 yards and a league-high 15 first downs against Red Hook. The three-man rushing attack of Terry and Anthony Monroe and Sean O'Boyle is probably the only one that can match Wallkill in productivity.

Rangers Down Bruins, 7-5

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nick Fotiu scored on a rebound of a shot by Mark Heaslip at 15:54 of the third period to break a 5-5 tie and lead the New York Rangers to a 7-5 preseason win over the Boston Bruins Thursday night.

Greg Polis followed with an insurance goal with 1:36 left to play. The other Rangers goals were scored by former Bruins—Phil Esposito with two, Ken Hodge and Carol Vadnais.

Don Marcotte scored two goals for Boston and getting one each were former Rangers Jean Ratelle and Rick Middleton and Stan Jonathan.

Iselin Is Improving

DENVER (UPI) — New York Jets' President Phil Iselin is in stable condition and improving from the heart attack suffered during halftime of Sunday's football game with the Denver Broncos, doctors said Thursday.

A spokesman for St. Anthony Hospital said Iselin still was confined to a cardiac unit but might be released in a few days.

Iselin, 74, collapsed in an owners' box at the stadium. Cardiac massage credited with saving his life was administered by Dr. Thomas Dillon, husband of Jets' co-owner Helen Dillon, and Dr. William Mehos, who was in the stands.

Jet players, who lost the game 46-3, apparently did not know of Iselin's collapse until the game was over. Ex-Jet kicker Jim Turner, now with the Broncos, told New York quarterback Joe Namath as they walked off the field.

AL Owners Charge Busch

CHICAGO (UPI) — American League owners support unanimously a move to deny the St. Louis Cardinals the right to sign free agent ball players because they believe Cardinals' owner August Busch violated the major league tampering rule.

The AL unanimously endorsed a request from League President Lee MacPhail on Sept. 16 to Commissioner Bowie Kuhn asking for a hearing on whether Busch violated major league rule 3 (G) by publicly announcing he had requested $3-to-$4 million from the board of directors to sign free agents.

Allegedly he mentioned he would attempt to sign pitcher Rollie Fingers and outfielder Joe Rudi of the Oakland A's, and the initial protest which MacPhail relayed to Kuhn was by A's owner Charles O. Finley.

The AL owners acted at a discussion meeting Thursday at which Finley said he "raised all kinds of hell" because the owners were informed that teams could begin negotiating with free agents whose teams were not involved in the playoffs at the end of the regular season.

"This was something they sprung on us from out of nowhere," Finley said. "All the other owners felt the same way I did. We had all been led to believe that we had until Nov. 4 to negotiate with our unsigned players. Now we find anyone can come in and sign them the minute the season is over."

Vote of Confidence for Robby

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Embattled Cleveland Indians' Manager Frank Robinson got a vote of confidence Thursday from ace reliever Dave LaRoche, who complained that the players have not been consulted about whether Robinson should be signed on for next season.

"Frank is far from a perfect manager," said LaRoche. "But he's far from being the worst."

LaRoche suggested that General Manager Phil Seghi "ought to get some players' opinions" before deciding whether to fire Robinson.

"We have no control over it, yet we are the guys who will have to produce with somebody else," he added. "I'm surprised Frank is not being rehired automatically. The team has improved each year he has had it."

Finley Can't Get A's to Sign

CHICAGO (UPI) — Oakland A's owner Charlie Finley revealed Thursday he had offered two of his six unsigned players more money than they had asked for and still couldn't sign them. Now it appears he will never sign five of the six.

"Up until tonight I was hopeful Charlie could sign the players," said Jerry Kapstein, bargaining representative for five of the six players, when reached at his Rhode Island office late Thursday night.

"If he did indeed violate the spirit of good faith negotiations by releasing the alleged figures, thereby showing no respect for the rights of my clients, then I will immediately cease negotiations for all of my clients."

Finley said he had offered Gene Tenace a three-year contract for $90,000 — a raise of $39,000 over his 1975 salary — for 1976, $120,000 in 1977 and $140,000 in 1978. Finley said Tenace had offered to sign a three-year contract for $85,000 this year, $105,000 in 1977 and $130,000 in 1978.

The A's owner said that Joe Rudi, paid $84,000 last year, wanted $115,000 for 1976, $135,000 for 1977 and $150,000 for 1978 on a three-year contract while Finley offered a threeyear agreement at $120,000 this year, $140,000 in 1977 and $160,000 in 1978.

Bookie Issues Warning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The new instant federal tax collection on winnings over $1,000 at the nation's race tracks will result in widespread evasion, cheating and a bonanza for illegal bookmakers, according to the only American manager of a licensed British gambling casino.

Victor Lownes, operator of London's Playboy Club and three other British gambling casinos, told a special White House Commission on National Gambling Policy the proposal contained in the tax bill awaiting President Ford's signature is "ridiculous."

If the President signs the bill, Internal Revenue Service agents will be empowered to collect 20 per cent of all track payoffs of over $1,000, similar to withholding taxes on regular income.

LPGA Title On Line

CALABASAS, Calif. (UPI) — Judy Rankin, who broke the magic $100,000 barrier at the U.S. Open two months ago, was asked about the importance of the new $205,000 Carlton.

"It's the first time in LPGA history," she said, "that the money champion could be decided this late in the year. Normally, I'd have it wrapped up. But I'm not a sure thing this year.

"I definitely don't have anything locked up. There are four other girls still alive in this thing."

With $75,000 in first place money still up for grabs this year, including the big plum of $35,000 here, JoAnne Carner, Sandra Palmer, Jane Blalock and Pat Bradley remain in contention for the dollar crown that has eluded Rankin in her 15-year tour career.

In Thursday's opening round of the richest tournament in LPGA history, Rankin shot a two-under-par 70 over the tight, 6,136-yard Calabasas Country Club course while Debbie Austin and Susie Maxwell Berning carded 68s to share the lead.

Mary Mills and Donna Caponi Young, winner of last week's Portland (Ore.) Classic, were all alone at 69 followed by the trio of Rankin, Mary Horner and Pam Barnett.

"I feel like I could have shot 63 or 64 today," said Barnett, 28, after her round of 34-34. "I hit the ball right to the pin all day."

"Really," said Berning, a 35-year-old mother of one who shot 32-36, "I thought more people would be under par but the greens were very tricky.

"I do concentrate harder in the bigger tournaments but I don't think about money on the course."

Rankin, 32, said she hadn't felt any pressure since reaching the 100 grand plateau.

"You just get turned off to the same old questions," she explained. "There's really been no pressure. I haven't been playing well but it's not because of pressure.

"I just haven't hit the ball well and I haven't been able to make it up with my putting. It's been pretty depressing.

"But this was a pretty good round. I feel good about it. Of course, it doesn't matter that I'm two shots back on Thursday. I'd rather be five shots ahead on Sunday.

"I like a 72-hole tournament because there is that extra day. But week in and week out, I don't know how we'd be able to handle it. The men's tour is a different picture because they have a lot more depth and the men don't have to play week in and week out.

Miller Works Hard At Being Relaxed

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — People watch Johnny Miller walking down a fairway or standing on a green waiting to putt and they can't help notice how relaxed he looks.

Some even think he doesn't care to play golf because of his lackadaisical approach to the game.

"I care all right," Miller says, "but it's never a do or die thing with me. Actually, I'm not as relaxed as I look. I have to work hard on being relaxed, although if I looked at golf as a profession I'd get bored. It has to be a fun thing for me or I can't play."

Thursday, it was fun and Miller apparently was relaxed enough because he shot a course record, nine under par 63 at Silverado's North course for a two-stroke lead over veteran Don January after the first round of the $175,000 Kaiser International Open.

Miller, who at 29 now is getting to be a veteran of the tour, started on the backside of the North course and three-putted the 10th for a bogey.

"It's going to be one of those days," Miller said he told himself.

Then, with John's mother and father standing in front of his home near the 11th green, Miller sank a four-iron for an ace.

"I said 'all right,'" Miller said later. "That sort of jazzed me up and more than made up for that bogey on the 10th."

It must have been the tonic because Miller never made another mistake in a picturebook round that saw him sink eight birdie putts, including a 30-footer on the 16th, which he said was "like stealing," en route to his 31-32.

Miller, who won the Tucson Open and the Bob Hope Desert Classic to start the 1976 season and no other event except for the British Open, is coming back this week after a three-week layoff. He says he plays his best after a rest, and the record bears him out.

A Happy Jug for Dancer

DELAWARE, Ohio (UPI) — Even in the flush of victory, Stanley Dancer couldn't help thinking back five years.

"This should have been my fifth Jug," said Dancer, who drove Keystone Ore to victory in the 31st Little Brown Jug Thursday at the Delaware County Fairgrounds. "I'm still heartbroken about Albatross not winning."

Dancer referred to the upset victory by Nansemond in 1971 over his heavily favored Albatross.

But 1976 was a much happier occasion for the veteran New Egypt, N.J., driver-trainer as he tucked away his fourth Jug win, moving to within one of Billy Haughton, who has five.

Keystone Ore, co-favored with Armbro Ranger, got the luck of the draw for Thursday's raceoff, starting on the rail inside Armbro, who had won the first division in 1:56 4-5.

"By leaving from the No. 1 spot, I could set the way the race developed," said Dancer. "Armbro Ranger was the colt I feared most."

But Armbro, who could have given Joe O'Brien his third Jug win, didn't have it in the stretch and the Steady Star colt finished a disappointing fifth behind Keystone, who turned in a 1:57 in winning his division and 1:57 in taking the raceoff.

"The final heat was actually easier than the first," said Dancer. "At no time was he (Keystone Ore) seriously challenged."

Dancer called the raceoff "my colt's best race ever."

Any problems Dancer had in the division heat were caused mostly by his poor post position.

The Hofheinz Reign Has Ended

HOUSTON (UPI) — Judge Roy Hofheinz brought major league baseball to the South's largest city with the dream of the first domed stadium.

He convinced the major league owners Houston should have a team and he convinced the public the city should have the domed stadium.

Hofheinz made additions to his sports domain — an amusement park and hotels all coming under the umbrella of Astrodomain.

But Hofheinz' organization started unraveling last year. He surrendered his dream Thursday by selling Astrodomain and the Houston Astros baseball team and relinquished control of the Astrodome to two lending corporations.

The purchase price was not disclosed.

Onofrio Is A Man With Problems

By UPI

So, you think you've got troubles in your business, pal? Well, maybe you'd like to swap jobs with Al Onofrio, the head football coach at the University of Missouri. Now there's a man with problems.

Only two weeks ago Onofrio and his team were sitting on top of the college football world after having opened the season by crunching highly-rated Southern California, 46-25. Dreams of high ratings and post-season bowl invitations danced in their heads, even though the Tigers were saddled with one of the toughest schedules in the country.

But two not-so-funny things happened on the way to becoming famous. First, Illinois, the supposed "breather" on the schedule between Southern California and Ohio State, turned vicious and whipped the tails off the Tigers, 31-6, last Saturday. Second, quarterback Steve Pisarkewicz, an AllAmerica candidate, was injured against the Illini and is out indefinitely.

So now, a season that had all the potential of something special could become nothing more than a taste of ashes. Entering today's game with Ohio State the Tigers must play five nationally-ranked teams in their final nine games, and that could make for some long autumn nights for Onofrio.

"We play the toughest schedule of any team around, I am sure," says Onofrio, whose team must tackle the likes of nationally-ranked North Carolina, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Kansas, as well as Colorado, following Saturday's encounter with the Buckeyes.

"We know it is risky as far as won-lost records and developing football teams are concerned, but we like the idea of playing top competition."

Playing the second-ranked Buckeyes without a top notch quarterback doesn't figure to be too pleasant, however. The Tigers' defense isn't expected to hold Ohio State, but with Pisarkewicz passing Missouri was supposed to present a formidable offense of its own. Now the odds swing very favorably to the Buckeyes.

The odds are very much in favor of the remainder of the top five ranked clubs Saturday. Top-ranked Michigan, No. 3 Pittsburgh, No. 4 UCLA and No. 5 Oklahoma all are expected to win easily over undermanned opponents. Michigan hosts Navy, Pittsburgh entertains Temple, UCLA plays host to Air Force and Oklahoma entertains Florida State.

Navy faces an awesome task in trying to control Michigan's powerful rushing attack which has amassed 1,001 yards in victories over Wisconsin and Stanford. Navy Coach George Welsh describes the Wolverines' backfield as "the fastest I've ever seen in college football."

"I'm not saying we don't have a chance," said Welsh. "It's just that they have better speed than we do. But you never know what's going to happen."

Temple also will be hard put to stop Pittsburgh's running game, which centers around Tony Dorsett. Last year the Owls were crushed by Pittsburgh, 55-6, and the Panthers, even though they have lost starting quarterback Robert Haygood with a knee injury, appear to be stronger than a year ago.

Florida State may have the roughest afternoon of all. The Seminoles were beaten 47-0 by Miami last Saturday and would need something like an earthquake to keep the score respectable against the Sooners.

"They haven't exploded yet and that is what worries me," says Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden. "The only people who will beat Oklahoma is Oklahoma themselves. They fumbled 13 times in a game last year and still won. If they don't put the fumble back in their offense we are in trouble."

In other games involving the top 10, No. 6 Nebraska hosts TCU, No. 7 Georgia entertains South Carolina, No. 8 Maryland visits Syracuse, No. 9 Texas A&M plays Houston at Rice Stadium and No. 10 Penn State hosts Iowa.

Swann Isn't Satisfied With Rozelle's Decision

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pittsburgh wide receiver Lynn Swann, who has received two concussions in two games against Oakland, says NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle was pussyfooting and politicking when he issued four fines for misconduct during and after the Steelers-Raiders game Sept. 12.

Swann's concussion in the season opener won by Oakland, 31-28, was the worst blow in the hard-fought game that led to fines against Raiders' defensive backs George Atkinson and Jack Tatum, Steelers' defensive tackle Ernie Holmes and Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll.

Atkinson's fine, reportedly $1,500, apparently stemmed from the whack he gave Swann in the head, while Tatum and Holmes were fined for unspecified "actions on the field." Noll's fine for "conduct detrimental to the game" presumably stemmed from his outburst the next day, when he called the Raiders' play "criminal."

Tatum's fine reportedly was $750. The amounts of Holmes' and Noll's were not revealed.

No fine against Oakland would have been large enough to suit Swann.

"I'm not satisfied with Rozelle's decision," he said. "I do not think it was a strong enough deterrent. I think in situations of that nature, it should carry an automatic suspension of one to two weeks.

"I think he (Rozelle) was being political in a situation that should have not been political, but a decision made for the benefit of football. That decision was not beneficial to football."

An Unusual Approach For Student Smokers

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The principal of a suburban junior high school has come up with an unusual approach to encourage his students not to smoke cigarettes.

Albert Mirand, principal of Cleveland Hill Junior High School in Cheektowaga, requires students who smoke to use the Can-Dial Service, a cancer information program set up by the American Cancer Society and Roswell Park Memorial Institute.

Students are required to listen to various recordings on cancer, then write a comprehensive essay about the program and their reaction to it.

Mirand said he believes education is a better answer than punishment.

"All students are encouraged throughout the school year to read periodic bulletins and research their own information on smoking as a detriment to health," Mirand said.

Upstate Prof Named To Alcoholics Group

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Joseph D. Sundram, Niagara University professor of economics, has been named to the Advisory Committee on Alcoholism, the governor's office said today.

Sundram, 57, has been active in several programs dealing with counseling and treatment for alcoholics, the office said, and is a member of the Niagara County Council on Alcoholism.

His appointment to the group, which advises the state Department of Mental Hygiene on alcoholism treatment and problems, is for a term ending Dec. 31, 1978, and is subject to Senate confirmation after the legislature convenes in January, the governor's office said.

Man Is Cleared Of Arson

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — A Buffalo man has been found innocent of arson charges by an Erie County Court jury in connection with a fire at a restaurant in June 1974.

The six-man, six-woman jury returned the verdict Thursday in the case of Morris Satz, 45, who was accused of setting fire to the Shadows Restaurant on June 14, 1974.

Ridge Homes invites you to a very different OPEN HOUSE this weekend.

This is your opportunity to see how one smart family is making their dream come true by finishing their house themselves... and how you can do it too! This very different idea — the Finish-It-Yourself House™ — is making it possible for people to move into custom-built homes they once thought they couldn't afford. There are many Ridge Homes that you can make affordable by doing some of the finishing work.

About how much can you expect to save? You can save thousands by finishing your custom-built Ridge home yourself, compared to the cost of having a general contractor build the same house on your lot. And since this is a custom-built house, you can choose the plans and personalize the house to suit yourself.

Don't miss the Ridge open house. This is how you make your dream come true.

Come out this weekend — RAIN OR SHINE!
HERE'S HOW TO GET TO THE OPEN HOUSE:

Time: Noon—6:00 P.M.
Dates: Saturday & Sunday, September 25 & 26
Directions: The Open House is located on Route 9G, ¼mile North of the East Park traffic light. Watch for the Ridge Homes Open House signs.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, SEPT. 25

Your Birthday Today: Prepare for incidents of significant change which by year's end will set you onto a more advanced way of life, with priceless experience that can never be repeated. Suddenly developing situations are natural now, the outcome depends on how you react. Relationships are difficult, worth all efforts within reason. Today's natives are intrepid, true friends. Those born this year break from the past to find fresh paths at almost any cost. Their research will help shape the technology of coming ages.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Nothing is easy, but what you do achieve is very satisfactory. Keep your daytime budget intact, as late incidents involve spending for extras.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): If it seems to you friends are erratic, remember they've some equally dismaying view of you. Bargain: don't adopt an officious position. Home life improves.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Avoid overdoing. Creative projects absorb much energy, perhaps a lot of cash. Not saying that hasty word rescues a whole line of approach for better use.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): People can't make decisions fast enough to suit you, so go on with other matters. Don't annoy others. Get busy. Above all, stop feeling sorry for yourself.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Try for a no-work, no-concern weekend. Switching of plans creates more problems than it solves. Realize there are good reasons for things being as they are.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Early communication saves your day, as later circumstances would otherwise confuse all concerned. Avoid travel. Inspect house or garden for seasonal work.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): On this slow day notice a gradual buildup of energy which may let go abruptly. Don't repeat requests once you get a firm "no." Move along to something else.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your main frustration is that either no problem is serious emough or the difficulty isn't available for more efforts at solution. Work off nervous energy.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get neglected chores done early, taper off rapidly. Evening hours are restless. Impulsive whims result in unwelcome incidents. Think before you joke.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Keep the show on the road without indulging in experimental procedures nobody else understands. You can avoid argument by having clear records.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): If you are self-confident, spite won't hurt your pride. You are merely in the path of people projecting their troubles on anyone handy.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Your greatest opportunity today is self-improvement. Reflectio

TEEN FORUM

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D.

SOMEONE: (Q.) I need someone to talk to. I need someone who will listen to me. No one in my family understands me. I have tried to sit down and talk to them, but it only makes me mad.

I went to a summer camp. I could talk to my counselors and they understood me AND my problems. I loved it there, but as soon as I got home, things started to build up inside of me and there is no one to help me.

We do not have any kind of counseling at our school. What should I do? I am 13. — All Bottled Up in New York.

(A.) The world is full of good listeners. These include relatives (grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins, in-laws), neighbors, school teachers, Sunday school teachers, ministers and friends.

Among all the people you know, you can find several good listeners.

Remember, though, that these other people also like and need to talk. Listen to them also. Often, listening is better than talking.

SPENDING: (Q.) My parents don't want me spending money on girls or even dating them. I tell them about other boys younger than I who date girls, but they just don't LISTEN to me!

Do you think that I am too youmg to date? (I am 14.) If you don't, then how can I convince my parents that I am old enough?

I want to ask this girl Sandra for a date. — Waiting in Connecticut.

(A.) Lots of 14-year-old boys date girls and pay their and the girls' expenses on dates. They naturally have the problem of not being old enough to drive legally. But they can cope with that by double dating with older teens or arranging to be driven by parents or others.

If your parents refuse to let you date and spend money on Sandra, there is an alternative. Ask her to meet you at a movie. Then you can make your own arrangements to get there and back, and she can make hers. And each of you can pay for your own ticket.

Talk to your parents about this idea.

(Have a problem? Write to Dr. Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received, Dr. Adams cannot send personal replies.)

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

DON'T TAKE GOODY WHEN FIRST OFFERED

© 1976 Los Angeles Times

by Alfred Sheinwold

Remember your childhood lessons when you play bridge: Don't take a goody the first time it is offered. Wait to be coaxed.

Opening lead — ♠ K

If you're greedy enough to win the first trick, you'll lose the game and rubber.

Suppose you continue with the ace of diamonds and a spade. West leads out the ace and seven of hearts, killing the dummy. You must lose a trump, two spades and a club.

Down one on a hand that any good child should make.

NO SHUTOUT

The defenders cannot shut the dummy out if you refuse the first trick.

If West leads a second spade, you cash the ace of diamonds and ruff a spade in dummy. You discard a club on the king of diamonds and you lose only one spade and one trump.

If West fails to lead a spade at the second trick, you can use the ace of spades as the entry to good diamonds. You eventually discard one spade and one club on the king and queen of diamonds.

Refusing the first spade gains two tricks. This is often true when dummy's only entry is the doubleton ace of a side suit.

After all, Mother knows best.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: ♠ A 8 ♡ 5 4 ◇ K Q 8 6 2 ♣ 10 9 8 3. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 3 NT. The partnership count should be 25 to 27 points, and you have a good five-card suit to make up for any possible shortage of points.
